AGREE TO HOLD TEACHER PAY LEVY SESSION

School Board Members Hear Vigorous Protests at Budget Session.

Before adopting a $922,633 budget for school operations in 1947, the Mansfield board of education last night promised to hold a special meeting next week on a proposed levy to pay higher teacher salaries.

Last night's meeting, attended by some 30-odd teachers and citizens, climaxed weeks of mounting pressure among the teachers for pay raises. The board has met with a committee of teachers several times on the problem.

Although several of the visiting teachers requested the board to act on a new operating levy last night, the four board members declined to take action because of the absence of other members and Supt. W. L. Miller who was on vacation.

"The problem is of such importance that we feel the entire board and the superintendent should be present when any action is taken toward submitting a levy to the voters," said Harold Bruce, board member who acted as chairman in the absence of H. W. Arlin, president.

Promises Meeting.

Arlin arrived at the meeting before it was concluded and reassured the teachers that the problem of their salaries was being considered by the board and that a meeting would be held as soon as Supt. Miller can attend a board meeting. Miller returned to Mansfield from New York late last night.

"It's not a question of whether we should have a levy, but rather of 'how much.' The teachers have asked that we propose a four-mill levy, but I personally think that is too much. People nowadays are price conscious and while they realize the plight of the teachers it might also be hard for them to accept an excessive increase on the tax duplicate," Arlin said.

The teachers were insistent that action be taken by the board before Aug. 1 by which time they must have accepted a contract to teach in Mansfield or officially resigned for the year.

"Some of us have received offers from other school districts and if we can be assured the Mansfield board will propose an additional levy it will give us some guarantee that something can be done about raising wages," Dan Haber, Senior high school teacher, said.

43 TO DIE

Court Sentences German SS Men For Bulge Killings.

DACHAU, Germany —(AP)— An American military court sentenced 43 veteran German SS troops to death today for the slaughter of 900 American soldiers and Belgian civilians during the winter battle of the Ardennes Bulge.

The crimes were committed during Germany's last offensive around the Christmas season of 1944. Prison sentences ranging up to life were given the other 30 of the 73 officers and men convicted last Thursday.

Col. Joachim Peiper, who gave the fateful order that the SS troops were to take no prisoners, was one of those doomed. Testimony was that he ordered frozen, exhausted and disarmed American prisoners shot during the battle and that the Germans sang songs of massacre on the eve of the offensive.

Tito Expresses Faith In Russia

LONDON — (INS) — Radio Belgrade quoted Marshal Tito today as stating Yugoslavia places its trust in Russia to insure its "freedom and integrity."

The Yugoslav chief of state was said to have declared he is unwilling to accept Big Four decisions on Trieste. He said he has the support of his "greatest friend and ally, the Soviet Union," in that stand.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif —(UP)— Airplane Designer Howard Hughes was taken off the critical list today and for the first time in 72 hours has taken solid food, his doctors announced.

Things Are Really Tough

LANCASTER, Pa. — (INS) — Signs of the times:

WHITEHEAD INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Grand Jury Returns Bills in Loudonville Slaying, Safe-Crack Attempt.

ASHLAND — Millard Whitehead, 40, Hyden, Ky., worker at a Pennsylvania railroad camp near Loudonville, was indicted Monday afternoon by an Ashland county grand jury for manslaughter in connection with the death of Carl Norris, 39, fellow-worker in a knifing fracas at the camp, July 9. Date of Whitehead's arraignment has not been set.

He has three days in which to enter a plea. Time of the arraignment had not been set at noon today.

Whitehead is being held in the Ashland county jail under $2,000 bond since his capture several hours after Norris' death. Norris died en route to Mansfield General hospital from loss of blood from the knifing which followed an all-day quarrel between the two men.

Among witnesses called by the grand jury were a number of fellow-workers of Whitehead and Norris who saw the fight. All were transferred to a Cleveland railroad camp shortly after the incident but had agreed to return here as witnesses at Monday's grand jury session.

The grand jury also returned two indictments against George Colbert, 27, Cleveland, in connection with the attempted safe cracking at the Loudonville Equity company last week. Colbert was indicted on charges of attempted safe breaking and also for breaking and entering. Three accomplices in the attempted robbery are still at large. Colbert was taken into custody when he returned to get his abandoned car.

RISKS SPLIT

Byrnes Voices Demand For German Unification.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States risked an open split with Russia today in an attempt to force economic unification of Germany.

Secretary of State Byrnes declared last night that orders giving Russia a choice between cooperation or "economic paralysis" in Germany will go forward "this week" to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, American military commander at Frankfurt.

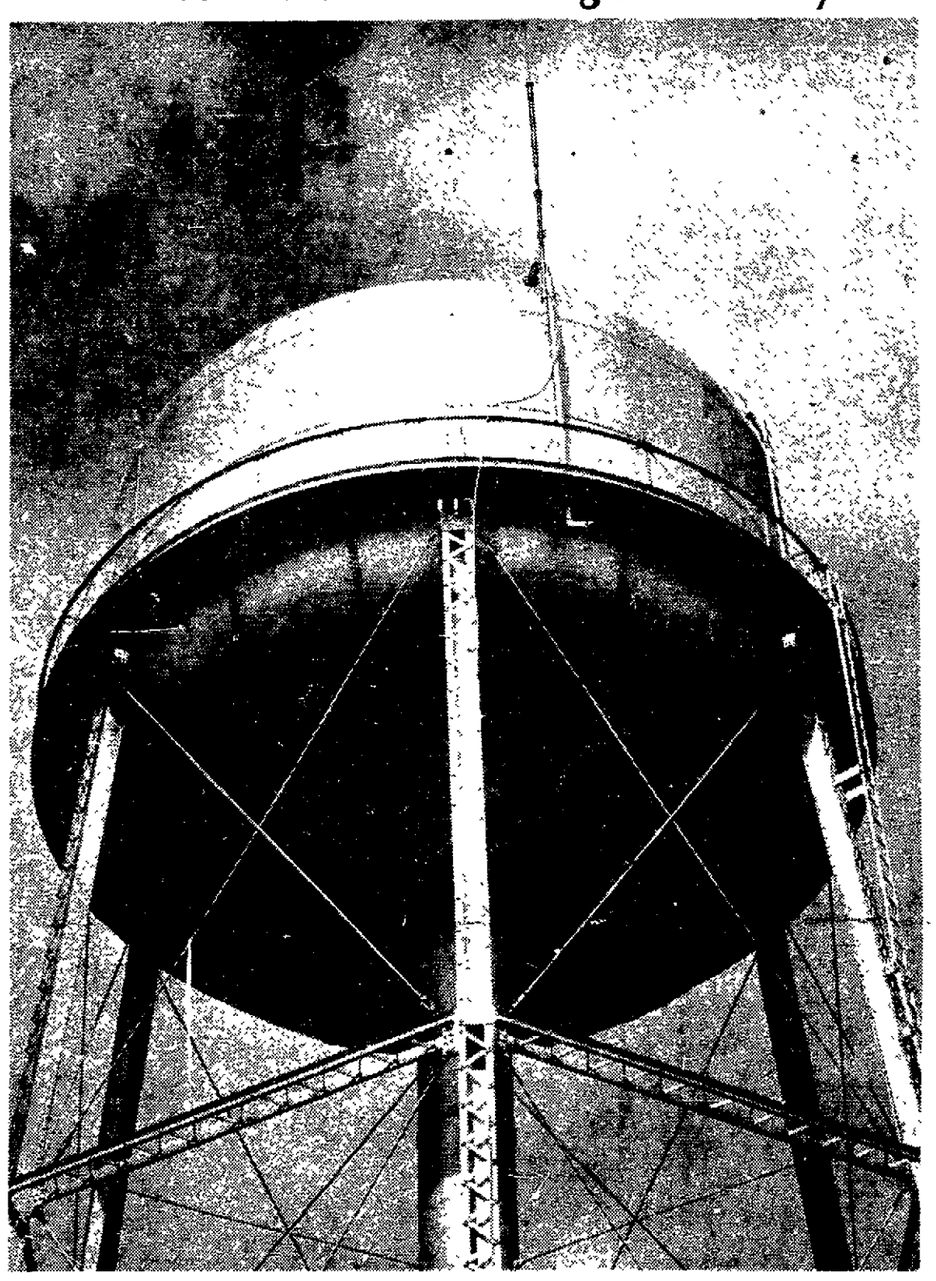
In a radio report to the American people on successes and failures of the four-power council of foreign ministers at Paris, Byrnes asserted: "We will either secure economic cooperation between the zones or place the responsibility for the violation of the Potsdam agreement."

Hit-Skip Driver Surrenders Self

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Earl Hirn, 55-year-old painter, had confessed today that he was the driver of the hit-skip automobile which fatally injured an 18-year-old high school senior here early Sunday, police reported.

Hirn gave himself up yesterday when he told Columbus detectives, "it has been preying on my mind . . . I haven't eaten or slept since then." Two other students were injured in the accident that resulted in the death of Peter Chaldis. Police said charges of failure to stop after an accident would be filed against Hirn.

Police Radio Antenna High Over City



One hundred seventeen feet above ground, the new antenna for Mansfield's police department radio was put into operation last night and contact was established with Massillon and Delaware police departments. The antenna is atop the Woodland water tower on Cook road.

NEW ANTENNA SITE HAILED

City Police Make Contact With Massillon in Initial Test.

"Readibility ok."

Those words came from Massillon and Delaware last night and they marked success for the new police antenna and transmitter location at the municipal water tower on Cook road.

The antenna transmits two-way messages between city police headquarters and cruisers as well as other police radio stations.

Henry Cole, engineer from the Motorola Radio corporation in Chicago, workmen from the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company and police officers headed by Chief Meade K. Bates worked all day yesterday moving the transmitter from atop the Farmers Bank building and installing the antenna with its 102 feet nitrogen filled co-axial cable.

The antenna now pointing its slender shaft 117 feet above the ground was installed on top of the water tower by workmen assisted by Patrolmen M. M. Colby.

The transmitter was installed in a small brick and concrete structure.

Nation's Top Stunt Fliers Preen Wings

Workmen Getting Grounds Set for Huge Crowds

City employes and other workmen were busy today dressing up the new Mansfield Municipal airport for its formal debut next Saturday and Sunday.

Three power mowers were at work on the field, Service-Safety Director W. W. Enlow announced, paying special attention to that part of the field to which the expected crowd of 50,000 will have access on each day of the show.

Other city workmen were busy installing snow fence barriers, intended to keep the crowd away from the runways and taxi strips to be used by planes participating in the two-day event.

Spectators will be permitted access to all of the ground display planes, and special ramps will be built so they can see into the interiors of the ships. However, as a safety factor, no one will be permitted in the immediate vicinity of the planes

Prepare for Role In Mansfield's Air Show

Three of the country's top-flight stunt pilots are preening their wings for the spectacular entertainment they'll provide spectators at the Mansfield Municipal airport dedication and sky show Saturday and Sunday.

The three are Beverly Howard, Orangeburg, S. C.; Woody Edmondson, Lynchburg, Va., and Mike Murphy, Findlay, O.

You can start a pretty warm argument among professional airmen if you were to say that any one of the trio is the "best" in the country, but you get just about unanimous agreement that there's no one better than these three.

All of them have nation-wide reputations, and have flown in scores of major aviation meets across the nation, and all are veterans at their jobs.

Eviction Requests Jump 60 Per Cent During First Fifteen Days of Month

Total of eviction cases filed in municipal court since July 1 have increased 60 per cent over those filed during a like period in June, Paul W. Ritchie, clerk of municipal court, said today.

Landlords have asked for 16 evictions since the ending of OPA as compared with nine during the first 15 days of last month, he said.

At the same time, Ritchie said that a large number of landlords have asked court officials how to proceed legally to evict tenants and that total number of evictions is expected to increase.

Outlining the procedure, he said that a landlord must first service notice personally that his tenant must vacate his property. If the tenant fails to vacate in three days the landlord must file an eviction proceeding with the court through his attorney.

Seven days later the case is heard. If it is decided in favor of the landlord, the tenant must vacate in 10 days. The tenant thus gets a total of 20 days to leave the premises.

If the tenant fails to move at the end of the 20-day period, the landlord must put up a deposit with the court to defray expenses of moving the tenant into the street.

REPORT LINKS HEIRENS WITH THREE DEATHS

Alleged Oral Confessions Bare Shocking Record of Crime.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said today that George Subrowski, a soldier, had identified William Heirens as a man he saw carrying a paper bag a block from the Degnan home shortly after Suzanne Degnan was kidnaped. Tuohy said he would seek murder indictments against Heirens.

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN
(Copyright 1946 by the United Press)

CHICAGO — (UP) — William George Heirens, 17-year-old college student, has admitted that the slaying and dismemberment of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan was premeditated—planned as the safest and easiest way to collect ransom from her father, the United Press learned from reliable sources today.

This was only one of the shocking details in the youth's brief oral admissions, revealed exclusively by the United Press yesterday, that he kidnaped and killed little Suzanne and also killed two women—Frances Brown, a former WAVE, and Mrs. Josephine Ross, a housewife.

Kills In Frenzy.

The latter slayings were committed in a mad frenzy which swelled in the youth's twisted mind when the women surprised him in attempts to burglarize their apartments. The youth showed the same violent reaction June 26 when he wrestled four policemen after they caught him attempting to burglarize another apartment. He was felled by three flower pots in the hands of a rookie cop.

From his brief oral admissions and facts and evidence gathered by the police in their investigations, it now is possible to present a

MIHAILOVITCH LOSES APPEAL

Former Chetnik Chief Must Face Firing Squad at Dawn Wednesday.

BELGRADE—(INS)—Gen. Draja Mihailovitch lost his appeal for clemency today and is expected to die before a Yugoslav firing squad at dawn tomorrow.

The former Yugoslav Chetnik leader and war minister of the Yugoslavian government-in-exile was condemned to death yesterday along with ten of his followers. They were found guilty by Marshal Tito's highest military court of treason and wartime collaboration.

Mihailovitch's appeal for clemency was rejected by the presidium of the Yukoslav national assembly, the only channel—because of the supreme nature of the court — through which appeal could be made.

(In London, a British foreign office spokesman said the government does not intend to make representations to Yugoslavia in support of Mihailovitch's plea.)

Besides the death sentences, the court handed out prison sentences to 13 other defendants. These terms ranged from 18 months to 25 years at hard labor.

All the accused, ten of whom were tried in absentia, were sentenced to loss of their personal property. It is to be confiscated by the Belgrade government.

HONORS TASK FORCE

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The men of eight aircraft carriers of the famous Pacific Task Force 58 which pounded the life out of Japan's naval and air forces will be honored today by President Truman in an unusual White House ceremony. Mr. Truman presents presidential unit citations to the carriers Belleau Wood, Bunker Hill, Cabot, Essex, Hornet, Lexington, San Jacinto and Yorktown, all veterans of the mighty naval blows that broke the heart of Japanese resistence.

Start Work On Seats At New Stadium

$65,000 Contract Calls for Erection of North Stands.

Work started today on the partial construction of Mansfield high's new football stadium.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the high school athletic association, announced this morning that a contract for the construction of the north stands of 6,000 seats has been awarded the Mountaineer Engineering company of Pittsburgh on a bid of $65,521.

Although actual work started today at the new site on Route 30-N near Trimble road, the stadium will not be ready for use until the 1947 season.

In making the announcement of the letting of the contract, Arlin pointed out this sum covers only the cost of the north stands which will extend from goal to goal.

"The entire program can not be carried on at the present time because of the high construction costs," Arlin stated. "However, we do want to go into it as far as we can at present costs."

* * *

PLAN TO MOVE PRESENT STANDS

Arlin also said the $65,521 doesn't cover such items as plumbing, lighting, fencing, the south side stands, dressing room facilities, press box, and numerous other costs.

Plans call for the moving of the present steel stands from the old field to the new stadium where they'll be put up as temporary stands on the south side. This would bring the seating capacity up to 8,000. Additional seats on the ends would allow for another two thousand.

Arlin stated that there are still many details to work out since the stadium will be constructed over a long period.

Says 'Sadist' Killed Pets In Ohio City

CIRCLEVILLE —(INS)— A "sadist" was blamed today for the deaths of nearly 100 dogs, cats and other pets by the sponsor of a rat-poisoning campaign.

James I. Smith, Circleville cannery executive and chief sponsor of the campaign, termed it a success and claimed that "thousands" of rats were destroyed.

In a paid advertisement, Smith asserted that the pets did not die from the rat poison distributed on bologna slices thorughout the city.

"They should be exhumed and examined by proper authorities to determine the cause of death," he stated.

"If such examination unearths criminal evidence, a concerted effort should be made to find the culprit who would deliberately discredit a worthwhile program and take advantage of this opportunity to indulge in sadistic practices."

Mayor Ben H. Gordon, who will be questioned about the campaign by city council members tonight, issued a statement expressing regret over the deaths of the pets and declaring that he did not sponsor the campaign.

JOBS SHAKY

OPA Workers Face Prospect of Half-Pay This Week.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Nearly 50 per cent of OPA's 34,000 workers face the prospect of half-pay this week. And there's a possibility the rest may get none when next week's pay day rolls around.

This may precipitate a crisis on whether the agency can hold its staff together while legislation to revive price controls is pending.

Thus far congress has taken no final action on OPA's appropriation for the fiscal year which began July 1. It may by the week's end, but that won't avert delays in pay checks.

Denies Report of Animals' Deaths

BIKINI — (INS) — Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy today spiked reports that animals which were subjected to the July 1 atom blast are now "dying like flies."

Blandy said that 84.7 per cent of the 3,519 animals which were exposed to the bomb are still alive aboard the laboratory ship Burleson. The admiral said he has been informed that 537 of the animals were killed instantly or died within two weeks of the blast. The total of 2,982 animals still living are under care of scientists.

CUTTING DOWN ON PURCHASE FROM DAIRIES

Mansfield Reflects Nation's Reaction to High Cost of Foodstuffs.

Mansfield's butter-buying strike spread to the grocers today.

Effectiveness of housewives' refusal to purchase butter at 81 cents a pound was shown in declining orders from retailers to dairies for the one pound "bricks of gold."

As one retailer put it, "What's the use of buying butter if it just piles up in our cooler. People don't want it at that price."

Another grocer reported that he had cut his butter price to 79 cents and still housewives wouldn't buy it.

Still others said: "It won't sell," and "Not only are butter sales off, but there is no greater demand at my store for margarine. I think customers are learning to do without both."

* * *

Milk Goes Up.

The price of standard 4 per cent grade A milk meanwhile had gone up to 17 cents a quart as announced yesterday.

Margarine sales, at an average price of 28 cents a pound, were reported booming in most local stores which had supplies.

Several butchers reported that meat was not "moving very fast" despite fairly stable prices.

In Toledo, it was reported the average of meat prices had dropped three to five cents per pound and that butter was not selling. A similar "buyers' strike" against butter was reported in Cleveland.

In the first country-wide anti-inflation action since the OPA expired July 1, the CIO United Auto Workers Union called its 800,000 members off their jobs for two-hour meetings.

Plants Face Shutdown.

In Detroit, citadel of the UAW-CIO, most industrial plants faced a shutdown with UAW officials estimating 250,000 CIO members would attend today's protest meeting.

A charge that the demonstration "is just a publicity buildup for the union boys" came from Charles E. Boyd, secretary of the Detroit Retail Merchants association.

Chicago UAW officials said 30,000 workers were expected to leave 60 plants today for a meeting at the 5,000-capacity Ashland auditorium.

Similar rallies were called in other cities throughout Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

GET URANIUM

Canadian Report Bares Red Spy Ring Success.

OTTAWA — (AP) — Indications that the three nations which hold the atom bomb secret may confer on Russian spy activities were seen today following publication of an official Canadian report that Soviet agents, who "may still" be operating in Canada, had flown samples of uranium 235 to Russia.

The report, issued by a royal commission asserted that many top secret military developments already had been compromised because of Russian spies, and that Moscow was seeking information on post-war defenses of the three countries — the United States, Britain and Canada.

After repeating previous charges that the Soviet spy operations had ramifications in the United States and Britain, the commission recommended that Canada consider whether to communicate her findings "to the proper authorities in the United Kingdom and the United States."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) —By a vote of 211 to 61, the house today rejected the senate OPA bill and sent it to a house-senate conference committee for a new effort to write a compromise price control measure that President Truman will sign. The vote was a victory for the president in this round of the weeks-long struggle over OPA, but administration leaders conceded that nobody could guess what OPA will look like, if indeed it survives at all, when it finally runs the gamut of the legislative processes.

You Bet Your Life—Leo Guild, a young man who is chummy with Bob Hope and has a flair for figures (the kind, as Bob puts it, that go into a book, not a sweater) has written a small but fascinating volume titled "You Bet Your Life" in which he gives the odds on everything from a roulette wheel to a midsummer night's kiss. With his customary charm he has given me leave to print the following excerpts, and I hope they entertain and educate my readers as much as they did me. Don't ask me how he figures out these things; I'm baffled, too.

At Vassar College, teachers and pupils alike are vitally concerned with the girls' marriage chances. After 30 years the class of 1912 found that 65 per cent of their graduates were married. Now what the girls want to know is what type of girl was able to nab her man? Figures lead me to offer 5 to 4 against the high scholarship group—6 to 5 in favor of the beauties and almost 2 to 1 in favor of the girls who are members of a team. Of the sports teams, hockey by almost 3 to 2 leads all the rest. So hockey must have something after all. Exactly what? Think it over.

If any time in the future your gin rummy opponent shows you a perfect hand on the draw just tell him he's beaten 13,629 to 1 against.

Contrary to general opinion the bank at the Monte Carlo Casino has never been broken. The funds at particular tables have run out after a series of lucky plays by gamblers. But there has always been plenty of money in the Casino's coffers to meet all payoffs. The reason probably is that the odds are 3 to 1 that if you go to a casino to gamble you will depend completely on luck. Gamblers, on the other hand, sometimes make a killing because they depend upon knowledge of the game, statistics and systems. Nick the Greek (it is said) has made a good living all his life at the gaming tables through a system of mathematics he refuses (and with good reason) to divulge.

What are the odds that you can disappear and never be found if you are fed up with it all? According to a national detective agency, Skip Tracers, 7,000 to 1 against you. For every single wife who strays from the household over a thousand husbands duck. However, it is 2 to 1 easier to find the man.

Are you expecting? If you are, 6 to 5 baby sees the first light of day in July; 5 to 8 against its being born in November; and if he's born in March, according to Ellsworth Huntington of Yale, baby will be smarter than if he were born at any other time.

Forty years old? Your name, not yet initialed on your office door? Don't feel too discouraged. Sixty-four per cent of the world's greatest achievements have been made by men and women between 45 and 65. If you are 70 and feel life has passed you by on a jet propelled plane, you still have a chance. Ten per cent of the world's important achievements are made by people between 70 and 80.

Here is why, during the few times you've been lost in the woods, you traveled in a circle. X-rays of 5,000 Americans showed that 3 out of 5 had legs of uneven length.

Can Girl Visit Boy's Family

By EMILY POST

A girl tells me: "I'm eighteen and at the moment causing quite a problem at home. I'd like to visit a boy whom I knew several months before he went overseas. He is home now and writes that he wants me to visit his family for a week. His mother has written me and seconded his invitation. My parents met this boy once and liked him very much, but they don't know his family, although mother is favorably impressed by his mother's note. She will let me go if you say it would be all right. She wondered, too, whether I might drive (an all-day trip) with the boy. He suggested coming on in their car, staying a day or so here with us and then driving me back home with him."

All of this sounds most proper. Certainly, there is nothing questionable in your going home with him to meet his family. Moreover, having him stay with your family first will give them an opportunity to know better what sort of person he is before letting you go. It also might reassure your mother should she call his mother on the telephone and have a short conversation with her about your visit.

One Dress for Two Weddings.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to take part in two weddings. The first will be as a bridesmaid at a fairly large wedding; the second, which is taking place about a month later, will be a small wedding at which I shall be the only attendant. May I wear my bridesmaid's dress at the second wedding? Very likely some of the guests will be at both weddings in case that makes any difference.

Answer: The only person to whom it makes a difference is the second bride. If she has no objection, then there is none. Even if she has, you could possibly change your appearance by wearing a different hat (or headress) and carrying different-colored flowers.

Wife Sits With Friend.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever good manners to let a friend sit in the back of the car alone while the husband and wife, who own the car, sit together up front?

Answer: If they are merely giving her a lift for a short distance, they may sit in the front seat. But if they are going for a drive of any distance, it would be rude, indeed. There is, however, one exception: If going on a real trip over unknown roads and the wife is an expert map reader, it would then be permissible that she sit beside her husband, but this should be explained to the guest.

Rounded Shoulders Unattractive

By MME. QUI VIVE

To tell a girl to stand up straight is the same as extending a hand and saying "Farewell, forever." It is the supreme beauty insult. She is not willing to believe that the facts justify such an order. She may have no idea that she slumps that her back is founded, her chest flattened. Or, if she has, she may not care. Some girls like that arty pose. Look at the models in fashion photographs. Some have the outlines of snakes or question-marks. What an example to set before the sisterhood.

Few girls can display beautifully-formed shoulders, or a straight lovely back with a neat curve at the waistline. You acquire these blessings by the cultivation of perfect, graceful carriage, the possession of which seems to be the ambition of only a minority of the frail sex.

A lazy spinal column is responsible for many figure defects. When it does not carry on, the chest is contracted. The lungs are compressed, so that the air is drawn only into the top portions of the human bellows. The head is thrown forward, neck muscles become despondent and take on creases, collar bones are prominent.

Do right by your backbone; carry it as you should and your shoulders will take care of themselves.

The spinal column is the main support of the body. It has thirty-four joints that give suppleness of movement. Between the joints are tiny cushions that lose tone and elasticity if posture is not correct, or if the body does not have proper exercise. The spinal column is held in place by innumerable muscles that should be kept strong and resilient.

Sending the head forward and letting the shoulders droop are habits that pull on the muscles that extend from the neck to the center back, and from the neck to the upper arms, in an intricate pattern. They are like elastic bands: if stretched too far and too long, they won't snap back. Rounded shoulders are then an established good-look liability.

By keeping the spinal column erect and the abdominal muscles drawn in, the chest is expanded, the head is balanced, the back has fine lines, and the arms have an easy pose.

Nature gave us shoulder braces in the form of strong fibers. All we have to do is to use them and they will remain tight and strong. The moment the spinal column folds upon itself, there is a roll of flesh south of the belt and the silhouette is anything but attractive.

Rounded shoulders are sometimes due to ills in childhood, but when they develop in the late teens or the early twenties, they are due to poor posture. If they come in the thirties they give an appearance of age more devastating than wrinkles and grey hair.

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

Move over in the breeze of the electric fan and let's talk about how to eat to keep in top tune during the heat wave. The secret about how to eat to keep in top tune during the heat wave. The secret of eating to keep cool is not to eat too heartily or stoke up on fats and concentrated carbohydrates, or gulp down too many iced beverages. Don't get the notion this is just for sissies. I've seen strong men come in off a golf course and gulp down glass after glass of iced water or cold beer and get bellyed and feel mighty uncomfortable. It's too great a shock to the nerves of the stomach. Warm weather brings about a muscular relaxation which reacts on the digestive tract, and it's wise not to overburden it.

The problem of physical comfort in hot weather is to get rid of the heat generated. So it's better not to take a very cold shower. Feels fine at the moment, but the body just has to generate more heat. A cool shower or tub is more cooling and refreshing in the long run.

The same holds true with very cold drinks. True, their first effect is cooling, but the secondary effect is just the reverse. Also alcohol is concentrated fuel, which must be immediately burned, regardless of how much ice and how cooling it seems.

The old Chinese custom of drinking hot tea to cool off is fine on a hot dry day, but it doesn't work when the humidity is high for the reason that the perspiration induced by the hot drink is not quickly evaporated, which adds to the general discomfort. On such a day, a cool drink, not too cold and not taken too fast, does the trick. Even a glass of cold milk right out of the refrigerator should be sipped, or the chill taken off.

Summer meals should be simpler. We don't need as much food or as rich food. While fat meats, rich gravies and fried foods are not as appetizing in hot weather, it's easy to get too much fat in mayonnaise, sauces, pastries and soda fountain concoctions. Fats are too high in fuel to be used generously in hot weather.

It's not a good plan to switch suddenly to eating only cold food at a meal as that often brings on a digestive upset. Of course for anyone accustomed to a cold lunch, fine. But a good general rule is to eat one hot food at every meal.

In summer more salt is needed because salt is lost in perspiration. Sprinkle salt on eggs, salads, vegetables and melons. In some instances, salt tablets are needed.

When you come home tired and hot, you'll have a more pleasant evening if you take a few minutes to rest and relax before you sit down to eat. And sip cool water, rather than gulp down iced beverages.

—By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Plans for undertaking the first complete simultaneous census of the entire Western Hemisphere, proposed for 1950 by Inter-American census experts, are now well under way.

Nine nations have already designated senior statistical technicians to serve on a body known as the Committee on the Census of 1950.

Committee chairman is Dr. Calvert Dedrick, chief of the governments division of the U.S. Bureau of Census. Ricardo Luna-Vegas, assistant director of census in Lima, Peru, is secretary.

* * *

Each country will take its own census. The committee provides means for coordination of the statistical activities for the census through a consideration of common definitions, classifications and so forth. It will meet next spring, probably in South America.

Meanwhile, the Interdepartmental Committee on Scientific and Cultural Cooperation of the Americas of the State Department has provided funds for fellowships to train eight Latin American men in the United States.

These men, some of whom have already arrived, will spend a year studying American statistical techniques. Then they will return home to train others. By next summer a training school for key technicians from every nation will be held.

In the end, the census will supply vital statistics and basic facts on occupations and standards of living of an estimated 200,000,000 North and Central Americans and an estimated 100,000,000 South Americans.

Until now censuses of Latin American countries have been too few and too incomplete to gauge population trends. Ecuador never did have a complete census. Bolivia's last census was taken in 1900, Uruguay's in 1908. Argentina's last census was made in 1914. Haiti's in 1919. Cuba had the most recent, in 1943.

* * *

Dr. Halbert L. Dunn, of the Census Bureau and Secretary General of the Inter-American Statistical Institute, says the "challenge for hemispheral census of population for 1950" was issued from Peru in 1943. He says:

"Such a census offers the sole means of obtaining essential knowledge respecting the peoples of the Americas—their dispersion, composition, employment, income and other factors basic to the economic development of each country and to health and welfare programs."

Dr. Dunn says there are many hurdles to take before actual work on the census can begin.

Minimum standards must be developed for use of all countries. Study must be made of the geographical problems. Laws will have to be passed. Funds will need to be appropriated. Forms for taking the census will have to be designed and printed.

It is expected that census-taking will be hardest in the thick forests of the Amazon basin which is mostly inhabited by primitive Indians. To these people, security still lies in secrecy. It will also be difficult in Canada's northwest territories where 11,000 fur-clad Canadians are scattered over 1,300 square miles of land.

"The idea," says Dr. Dunn, "was so big, that at first it was considered visionary. Many said 'it can't be done.' But in a very short time the question of whether the job can be done has changed into planning how the job can be done."

Should She Return His Ring

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Will you please tell me if a girl should return a friendship ring given to her as a birthday gift by a fellow she was going with but has now broken off with?

I've already asked him if he would like it back and he said it was up to me. What shall I do?

UNDECIDED.

It would seem to me that since this was a "friendship ring," and the two of you are apparently no longer "friends," the whole thing has lost its point and it would be rather illogical to keep it. Don't you think so?

Also, would you really want to hang on to such a reminder of a romance that flopped? You wouldn't keep wearing this boy's ring, would you, when there is nothing between you any longer to justify it? And you don't want to just put it away in a box of tender memories, do you, and treasure a souvenir of something that's all washed up?

If it were a question of some casual gift such as any friend might give another without it having any special significance, it would be different. There would be no point in returning such things. But when it's something that was intended to symbolize a special feeling that no longer exists, then I think it's in a little better taste to return it. Unless, of course, you want the boy to believe that you still hanker for him and are just waiting in the hope that things will be patched up.

What's Cooking?

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

Sunday's Meal Will Be a Star.

Clear Consomme
Casserole of Duck in Sour Cream
Fluffy Rice
Buttered Turnips
Tossed Green Salad
Pineapple Cup with Cookies
(Recipes serve four)

Casserole of Duck in Sour Cream.

1 5- or 6-pound duck
4 tablespoons fat
Flour
Salt
Pepper
1 onion, chopped fine
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
Pinch of rosemary
Pinch of thyme
Clove of garlic
1 cup claret
½ pint sour cream

Have butcher cut duck into serving pieces. Dredge pieces in flour and sear them well in the fat. Place in baking dish and season with salt and pepper. Add the chopped giblets, onion, parsley, rosemary, thyme and garlic. Pour claret over this and place cover on baking dish. Place in 350 degree oven and cook for one and one-half hours. Add sour cream, cover baking dish and return to oven and continue cooking until duck is tender, about one-half hour longer. Serve with fluffy rice and buttered turnips.

* * *

Creamed Baked Spinach.

Fold cooked spinach into thick white sauce. Turn into a casserole and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake in slow oven one and one-quarter hours.

PIONEER COACH ON DISPLAY

SPALDING, Ida —(CP)— A historic coach that hauled a total of $1,626,222 from Lewiston to Spalding when the U. S. government was making payments to the Nez Perce Indians for their lands is now on display at the Sacajawea museum. According to records, the hack made its first trip to Spalding in 1895 carrying $626,000 in $20 gold pieces.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, July 17.

THE SIDEREAL operations for this day may not be deemed as entirely propitious, especially for intimate or home relationship or desires. There is hint of friction, inharmony, discord or a baneful or disconcerting element, to block the wheels of progressive, amiable and profitable achievement. Finance, position, career, social, cultural and romantic ties are menaced and should be wisely safeguarded, with festivities not up to expectations.

Those whose birthday it is may find their fondest hopes and wishes subject to certain adverse situations, in which finances, credit, position and popularity, in home, business and career, are likely to encounter friction, inharmony or disappointment.

Love affairs, parties or other celebrations may not materialize along the lines planned. Keep balanced, gracious and shrewd as well, should things run at cross purposes.

A child born on this day may have a difficult time to maintain its happiness and security on a sound, tangible and satisfactory foundation.

WORRIED MRS. GROUSE

Anxious is a mother's heart;
Constant worry is her part.
—Old Mother Nature

It is true that most mothers worry more than do other folks. It is because the hearts of mothers are so filled with love, and love and worry go together. It is just as true of furred and feathered mothers as of human mothers. While they have no more love than do human mothers they do have more cause for worry. Yes, sir, they do so, much more.

Just consider Mrs. Grouse. This year she had ten children, ten lively babies, each a separate worry to watch over and teach and keep safe from many dangers by day and night. On this particular morning, she had seen the young Fox before he had seen her or any of the babies. In a quick low voice she gave the signal to hide. Almost instantly ten downy, bright-eyed little Grouse vanished as if by magic. Then mother ran to meet the young Fox. She came fluttering and flopping out from beneath some low branches of a hemlock tree. At once the young Fox sprang for her only to have her slip from under his black paw and run with one wing dragging as if broken. Then she fell forward to flutter as if helpless.

For a while the young Fox sat still just looking.

Of course the young Fox tried again. The same thing happened. So she led him away from the neighborhood of the precious wee Grouse in hiding. At a safe distance she took to her wings. When out of sight of the young Fox, she circled around and so back to where the babies were.

There she stood for several minutes watching, listening, making sure that all was safe before giving the signal for the children to come out of hiding. Just as she was about to do this she spied the young Fox returning. This was upsetting. Was it just chance that he was coming back or did he suspect the reason why he had been so fooled?

"If that were Reddy Fox I would know that he knows that I have babies hidden around here, and I wouldn't have fooled him at all," thought she. "But this fellow is too young to have the wisdom of his father, and so I tricked him into following me. Now that he is coming back it looks as if I may have to do it all over again. There is no end to a mother's worries. If he goes to hunting around here he may find one of the babies by accident, so I better lead him away again."

So she fluttered out in front of the young Fox, seemingly as helpless as before. He did not try to catch her, not even once. If she had been worried before she was doubly now. Yes, sir, she was so. Beyond watching her from the corners of his eyes he paid no attention to her.

"That youngster is smart. He is smarter than I had thought, a true son of his father. He isn't to be fooled twice the same way. He learns quickly, too quickly. I wish I know if he suspects why I led him away. If he doesn't he may go off. I would worry a lot less if I knew that he doesn't suspect. He never has seen my babies so perhaps he doesn't know I have any," thought Mrs. Grouse as she tried in vain to tempt the young Fox to go after her.

Then she tried a new plan. She gave up making believe that she was hurt. Instead she made believe she wasn't troubled by his presence. She began walking about as if no one was near, picking up a bit of food here and bit there, or pretending to. Finally she disappeared as if no longer interested in that neighborhood. She hoped that if she showed no interest in it the young Fox would lose interest in it. But though she was out of sight of the Fox he wasn't out of her sight for an instant. She had hidden where she could watch him so that should he get dangerously near one of the babies in hiding she might do something to draw his attention to herself.

For a while the young Fox sat still just looking, listening, smelling all the smells brought by wandering Merry Little Breezes, still wondering why Mrs. Grouse had played such a trick on him. What do you think he did then? He yawned, lay down and curled up for a nap right there. Poor worried Mrs. Grouse.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

SOMETIMES a defender can see that a skillful declarer is preparing to throw him into the lead and make him come back into the jaws of a tenace. Naturally then he wants to thwart the play and considers tossing away the card with which the declarer threatens to give him the lead. His hope, of course, is that this will enable his partner to take the trick instead of himself. If the partner has not the next-higher card, this seems to constitute a gift to the declarer. But it is not, as the trick thus forfeited is regained through avoidance of the final lead into the tenace.

West led his spade K and, upon getting the discouraging 5 from East, switched to the heart Q. The A took it and South then proceeded to run all of his diamonds. The heart K was marked by West's Q lead as being with East. So the declarer planned to protect himself against a club loser by throwing East in with a heart. If East then had to return a club, South would be sure to lose nothing in that suit, no matter who had the club K.

But East, after the first few discards on diamonds, saw through the plan, and so protected his side against it. From the diamond 7 on, as he discarded, he selected first a spade, then two small clubs. His next discard was his heart K and finally the heart 9, leaving him his club K-9 and spade 8. West meanwhile discarded so as to keep the spade A, heart J and club J. South held the heart 8 and his club Q-8 and the dummy the heart 10 and club A-10. If East had held the heart K, the throw-in play would have worked. But, with that card gone, South had to lose two of the last three tricks, as West could win the heart with the J. The defense therefore took two of the last three tricks and beat the contract.

There Are Lilies for Everyone

By DEAN HALLIDAY

LILIES are found in too few gardens. This is due to the fact that many gardeners think they are difficult to grow, whereas many species will thrive under ordinary care.

There are lilies suitable for every condition such as dense shade, sun, wet or dry areas, sweet or acid soils or even pure sand. Therefore, when selecting varieties for your garden, grow those best suited to your particular type of soil and location.

If you are interested in lilies, it is not too early to start planning to plant them, for fall planting is preferred to spring planting.

Proper drainage is perhaps the most essential factor for success in growing lilies. They like moisture but will not tolerate wet feet.

When planting lilies, if your drainage is not perfect, dig down about two feet and put in a base of several inches of coal ashes. If ashes are not available use gravel or coarse sand and rocks. Coal ashes are preferred as they hold moisture.

In gardens where the soil is inclined to be wet, lily enthusiasts plant the bulbs on inverted flower pots, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

First dig a deep hole (about 16 inches), partly fill it with coarse sand and push the flower pot into the sand. Next place a thin layer of sand over the bottom of the pot and place the bulb upon it. Fill the hole with a mixture of sand, loam and well-rotted leafmold.

When planting a loose-scaled lily bulb, placing it on its side, as illustrated, helps prevent water from standing among the scales. Plant the bulb on a cushion of sand. Sand about the bulb, as illustrated, helps to keep borers away.

WOMEN KEEP JOBS

DENVER — (INS) — War's end brought little change in the lifeguard system at Denver's swimming pools and lakes. Ten of the city's life-guards are women. Curly Schlupp, recreation supervisor, said the women guards had proved so satisfactory during the war that the city had decided to hire them again. Sixteen other guards are men.

His Mannequins Show Styles For Pot-Bellied Gentlemen

By BARBARA BLANCHARD

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — (INS) — The business of Alvin M. Mendle is to glorify the clothes that glorify the American figure—from the cradle on up.

His St. Louis mannequin manufacturing firm is the biggest in the world, he said.

"We make everything, from infants to bay-windowed, middle-aged men," he explained.

Mendle pointed to a bay-windowed, middle-aged man wearing nothing but a walrus mustache with matching hair on the chest and asked the reporter to imagine how he'd look dressed in tweeds and a straw skimmer. It would have been embarrassing except that a mannequin is nothing but a clothes dummy with a pedigree.

Mendle's firm turns out 2,000 of them per month for all kinds of clients. Ordinary department stores get them off the production line. But the big clients like their models custom-built.

Women can give a mannequin everything but a southern accent if a client wants it that way—and is willing to pay the price.

For instance, in one section of his factory workers were spraying what looked like leg make-up on the models. "That's sun-tan for the southern trade," Mendle said. "In New England they like their mannequins fair.

"This is a mannequin," Mendle said, picking up what looked like a plain piece of paper mache. He meant symbolically it was a mannequin.

Elaborating on this whimsy, he explained that this sheet was fitted to a mold, a plastic material, cooked and dried. That, briefly, is the mannequin manufacturing business.

A look around the factory revealed that a definite caste system prevails among mannequins. One line reflects changing styles and is designed with an eye toward the smart, or well-heeled set.

A second line has a middle-aged look and can be used indefinitely. Mannequins in the tonier dress establishments have a whirl of 90 to 120 days in the display windows and then are banished inside.

Styles, for which Mendle thanks Providence, are as changeable as a woman's mind.

"Fortunately for us," he said, "you can't put a corset on a mannequin and make it fit current styles. You buy another mannequin."

A man who is casting around for a good investment might look into the mannequin business. The men who work day-in, day-out on them have a clinical attitude. The female form divine is just another dummy to them.

But still, it might be interesting work. Especially if there's a Pygmalion in the crowd.

Tomorrow's Problem.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Votes $922,000 for City School Budget

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL
TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1946 TELEPHONE 4251-6 PAGE NINE

Walter Winchell . . .

GEORGE ARLISS made $640,000 in the United States. That was his net estate, at any rate. Compare him with Wm. S. Hart. . . . Arliss didn't bequeath a peso to any American charity—not even to the Episcopal Actors' Guild, of which he once was president. Phooey. . . . Al Woods, the Broadway showman, reported to have lost $5,000,000, didn't lose a penny on the market. His wife lost it all. . . . Fred Hillebrand at 52 enters a local school of music. Five years ago, not knowing a note, he composed a Negro spiritual which was a smash hit. So he decided to write an opera. That explains why he is going to a music school in a class with kids. . . . The reason author Michael Strange (pen name of an ex-Mrs. John Barrymore) isn't listed in the Social Register as Barrymore is this: Stage names are not listed. Barrymore's real name is Blythe. . . . Elizabeth Bergner, the star, was turned away at the "On Whitman Avenue" box office the other eve'g. The show, rapped by the critics, was sold out.

* * *

The sign above Shubert Alley reads: "In honour of those who glorify this theater and who use this thoroughfare—Shubert Alley" . . . But when the gate beneath is closed—a sign on it slaps you in the face with: "No Thoroughfare!"

Edgar Bergen, no dummy he, is socking a mint into television . . . Two girls each earned $500 weekly before the war as featured performers with a well known dancer. They are now hoofing for $40 per week in the line of a night spot. Nice girls, too, and excellent dancers. What happened? . . . At an actors' matinee of "Private Lives" in Greenwich last week Talulu Bankhead asked to meet the gal in the audience whose laugh is so much like hers. They met. She is Zibi Osterwald of "Three to Make Ready." . . . Bankhead's feller during his navy days was Dimitrios Vilan. He is now acting under the name of Alex Rand. . . . Velly, velly intristing: Wherever their pictures play opposite each other, Margaret O'Brien outdraws Jane Russell by quite a comfy margin.

George M. Cohan put on some flops, too, in case you hadn't heard. . . . But even the great showman couldn't save a badly jumbled musical. . . . Wilson Mizner, who hadn't seen George since the wedding of a pal years before, went backstage to say hello . . . "Isn't it strange, George," sighed Wilson, "the only time we seem to meet is at weddings—or funerals."

In "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest" adverts, Robin Hood "saves the Prince," which any student of history knows is wrong. The youngster was the King, which is why England had a Lord Regent. . . . The Shoobs just bawt a big hunc of midtown realty. Whad—again? . . . Ed Darling, the one-time Palace booker, is writing a book about it. . . . Birmingham, Alabama, is where operettas are a beeg cleek. The Starlight Opry Co. (currently starring Gene Marvey and Mimi Bunzell of the Met in "Nawdy Marietta") will play to over a million Alabamans this summer. . . . Jerque of the week: The imbecile who set off two firecrackers in the Roxy balcony on the night of July 4th. If he had started a panic, he probably would have been hysterically happy. . . . During Gypsy Rose Lee's visit to H'wood she was invited to a society dinner for charity. The invitation read: "Dress Optional—But Positively Necessary!"

* * *

James Mason is a British movie star who won't come to America because the immigration officials told him they would quarantine his 12 cats for a few months if he brings them here. So he won't come. He's big box office in Lunnon. . . . The Yanks couldn't get a good game out of Bill Zuzer. So they traded him to their rivals, the Boston Red Sox, and he hurls a three-hitter. Like MGM's dropping Joan Crawford, who went to Warner's and copped an Oscar.

* * *

Tommy Dorsey, according to Tin Pan Alley, is supposed to have incorporated himself—sold all the stock for half a million—paid off his income tax with it—and banked over 300 Gs as capital gains. Henceforth, the legend would have you believe, Dorsey will work for a straight salary for the stockholders. . . . Congressman William Dawson (Dem. of Ills.) just forwarded his personal check for $1,000 to the producers of "On Whitman Avenue" to be spent for any use they see fit to help keep the problem show running. He is a Negro, as is the star, Canada Lee. . . "Icetime" at the Center has been playing to standees at all performances and at $2 tops. It is outdrawing all the other shows on Broadway. It almost hit $50,000 last week, compared to "Annie's" 45 Gs at $6.60 top. . . . A certain husband-wife radio team is getting ready for television . . . They'll leave the shades up.

NEW YORK — While the Mead committee of the senate dwells on the case of Murray Garsson's so-called paper empire in the war profiteering investigation, it might be appropriate for some inquisitive group to go back over his earlier career in the government service as an assistant to the Secretary of Labor in immigration cases. The treasury intelligence no doubt has taken the hint already for here is one of the gaudiest adventurers of our time.

* * *

Garsson was chief investigator for the Sabath committee of congress which investigated the reorganization of real estate promotions and other busted bubbles of the boom. Some excellent, conscientious lawyers served that committee as counsel but, as one of them recalled today, Garsson, notwithstanding his past and his reputation, which was not good, was "in control of the investigation and had the confidence of Congressman Adolph Sabath," of Chicago, the chairman.

* * *

Sabath had no excuse and his explanations should be examined with a cold, skeptical eye. This attorney readily acknowledged that any man in Garsson's position, could have deceived him and other lawyers and the committee. He could have directed the inquiry away from the interests of those who were kind to him or misrepresented situations in their favor to the detriment of victimized investors. He has now been found in association with the notorious Willie Bioff, and other rascals in Hollywood, in 1937, the last year of the investigation.

Bioff knew Garsson and testified, in his trial for extortion, that Schenck loaned Garsson $200,000. Some of Schenck's own interests were involved in the reorganizations under congressional inquiry.

What were these people doing together anyway and why should a government agent get such favors from a subject of his official interest?

From 1930 to 1932, Garsson had been a special assistant to William Doak, Herbert Hoover's secretary of labor. He was in absolute control over the investigation and prosecution of immigration and naturalization frauds. Here he was in a position to walk onto a movie set, in the midst of a production, and cause the deportation of an essential foreign actor.

* * *

The New York police records corroborate the data on Garsson which the F. B. I. supplied to the Mead committee recently and contain one earlier entry which seems not to have been mentioned in the F. B. I. report. This item is an arrest of one Wolf Garsson on March 17, 1909, at the age of 18, on a charge of robbery. The old record does not say what the outcome, noting only that bail was discharged. This was before the adoption of the finger-print system so there is a possibility that the identity was incorrect, although this entry is contained in the record of Murray Garsson.

* * *

An acquaintance reports that during his war boom Garsson went about New York carrying as much as $50,000 or $75,000 in currency in his pockets. He gambled and frequently entertained in New York a civilian official of the war department who recently appears to have tried to conceal the enormous amount of Garsson's war profits from the investigators.

Garsson's adventures in bankruptcy have been recalled to the minds of some of the creditors and attorneys by his recent prominence in the news and will be discussed presently.

While he may not be the top money-maker of the recent crusade to establish the four freedoms and succor the oppressed he may easily hold his position as the most audacious, and picturesque, his past being considered. Hundreds of New York politicians and lawyers knew him and only as a shady character who had had frequent skirmishes with the law.

Despite this reputation, he found political sponsors to put him into two government jobs presenting powerful temptations to graft in large amounts, being sent out by Congressman Sabath to expose crooks, and, finally, under the patronage of Congressman May of Kentucky, received war contracts to a total of $74,000,000 for decoy companies that produced trifling amounts.

BERLIN—(AP)—Narcotics addiction is less prevalent today in Berlin, a city of fear and frustration, than in New York or Hollywood, where life holds more security.

That is the opinion of Arthur Giuliani, U. S. military government narcotics control officer and former agent of the treasury department's bureau of narcotics.

"There has been a slight increase in the use of narcotics among professional men, but it hasn't reached the proportions of a major social evil," he said.

This contrasts with the situation in Germany after the first World war, when narcotics addiction became so widespread that the government was forced in 1928 to employ drastic curbs.

"Most of the present day addicts are physicians, victims of neuroses or German war wounded," said Giullani.

"Very few druggists become addicts. I suppose they see too many victims themselves and what it does to them.

"There is no marijuana smoking here," Giuliani said, "the chief types of addiction are morphine and cocaine and synthetic narcotics made from coal tar."

Powdered opium sells illegally in Berlin's threadbare underworld for $1,200 a pound. So far no organized gangs have been found specializing in supplying the "unnkies" or addicts. Narcotics are just another sideline to black market operators dealing in cigarets, food and other scarce commodities. Supplies are looted from German army dumps.

"The wehrmacht had literally tons of narcotics—enough to last Germany for at least ten years," said Giuliani.

GUNSHOT FATAL TO L. H. PARROTT

Crop Failure Given as Reason For Suicide of Holmes County Farmer.

MILLERSBURG — Leroy H. Parrott, 60, Holmes county farmer and Guernsey cattle breeder, died Monday afternoon of a self inflicted gun wound, according to Acting Coroner Dr. A. T. Cole, who gave ill health and despondency over crop failures, as reasons for the suicide.

Mr. Parrott was found behind a barn on his farm three miles northeast of Holmesville at 10 a. m. Monday by a nephew. He was taken to Pomerene Memorial hospital in Millersburg where he died three hours later.

Mr. Holmes was a member of the Holmes County Guernsey Cattle Breeders association and also of the state association. He was a member of the Union church of Fredericksburg.

He is survived by the widow, Florence, one son, Atlee, both of whom reside at home, a sister, Mrs. Jessie Rayot, of Columbus, and three brothers, Edward, of near Holmesville, Silas, of Wilmot, and Clifford, of Beach City.

Rev. Claude Rowe, of Brewster, and Rev. Kerr, of the Fredericksburg Union church, will conduct funeral services at the home Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Arrangements are being made by the Elliott funeral home. Burial will be in Fredericksburg cemetery.

Pants By Christmas, Suits Probably Will Arrive Sooner

It may be next week and it may be Christmas before Mansfield men can select a suit from the rack.

A little less definite is the trouser "situation."

The bare truth of the matter is that supplies haven't been up with the rising demand. One merchant said that "yards of beautiful materials and linings" are lying in New York manufacturing stockpiles now but manufacturers can't put out quantity because of labor shortage.

Another dealer, who had one pair of slacks and 195 suits in stock yesterday, was optimistic about the outlook.

"We've got more suits in stock now than we've had since April, 1945," he said. "And we should have a peak season this fall. We expect to increase our stocks to 700 or 800 suits."

The 195 suits, now in stock, were still a scanty half of the usual 400 or 500 suits generally carried by the store during this season in prewar days.

Another dealer, who said trousers were next to impossible to obtain, said that the shortage "can't ease up before next Christmas," and blamed manpower shortage in manufacturing centers as responsible.

"Men's Wear," official organ of the clothing manufacturers was inclined to agree with the optimistic merchant on the fall clothing stating flatly that the "men's suit shortage will be substantially eliminated by September."

Meanwhile, civilians as well as veterans were continuing to make their regular visits to local men's stores following up shipments and rumors alike in an effort to replenish threadbare wardrobes.

THREE ACCEPT

Two Mayors, Company Official Will Attend Dedication.

Paul A. Richeson, a former resident of Mansfield who is now mayor of Cardington, yesterday accepted Mayor Roy W. Vaughn's invitation to attend the airport dedication ceremonies Saturday and Sunday.

In his acceptance letter Richeson recalled the air races at the old port in 1931 and added that it would take something very urgent to keep him away from the dedication.

Acceptance letters were also received from Mayor Glen Swanger of Shiloh and from Carl C. Walker of the Jennings-Lawrence company, Columbus, an organization of civil and municipal engineers.

MOTHER DIES

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Mrs. Bertha Court of Lima, mother of Mrs. C. E. Sanderson, 120 Gibson avenue. She had been ill several months.

Surviving besides Mrs. Sanderson, are another daughter, Mrs. H. F. McBeth of Lima, two sisters of Marion; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted at the Lewis funeral home in Lima at 3:00 p. m. Wednesday.

NOT NEEDED

ASHLAND—Because of a sharp decrease in number of patients at Samaritan hospital this summer, Mrs. Mary Taylor, superintendent, has announced that the services of Red Cross Gray Ladies will not be needed at the hospital for the remainder of the summer.

GANGWAY TO AIRPORT!

Because so many city employes are serving on committees or helping in other ways to make the airport dedication a success Mayor Roy W. Vaughn announced today that all municipal offices in the city building will be closed all day Saturday.

* * *

NEED 'NESTS'—

With all hotel accommodations booked for the coming week-end, the airport dedication committee is appealing to Mansfield residents who have spare sleeping rooms to notify them by phoning 3712-6. Sleeping accommodations will be needed mostly for pilots and crew members participating in the airshow, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

IT LOOKED ODD—

"While walking through the park," at 2:30 a. m. today Officer Joe Greving observed a man crawl out of his car on North Park street and proceed to give his car a loud "bawling-out." Curious, Greving strolled over and the man shifted his remarks to the officer. Satisfied as to the cause of the man's strange behavior Greving signalled a passing cruiser and sent him to the city jail on a charge of intoxication.

MORE JOBS— FEWER CLAIMS

USES Reports Every Jobless Benefit Claimant Being Offered Employment.

C. W. Handley, manager of the United States Employment office in Mansfield, said today that only 110 new claims for unemployment compensation were filed last month, and that 40 of those were filed by women.

He said that unemployment figures for Mansfield showed a marked decline from May 25 through July 6.

Soldiers relief claims in May totalled 934 and dropped to 227 by last Sunday, while BUC claims fell from 814 to 288 during the same period.

Handley said that only a small percentage of claimants were disqualified.

He said that a labor shortage still exists in Mansfield, due in part to housing and in part to lack of certain skilled workmen such as molders and foundrymen.

"We are offering a job to every claimant," he declared.

New Firm to Make Valves

Incorporation of the Shafer Valve company in Mansfield was announced today in Columbus where incorporation papers had been filed for capital stock of $200,000 by the law firms of Voegele, Hutchison, and Moore.

H. J. Shafer, H. E. Neese, and W. E. Renwick were named as incorporators.

Renwick said that H. J. Shafer would be president of the new company which will manufacture a new type automatic piston valve to be used in gas, water, oil and chemical installations. Details for manufacturing the product and electing a complete slate of officers for the company have not yet been completed.

ALLOW RENT APPEALS

TOLEDO (AP) A board of appeals for landlords and tenants went into operation today as Toledo's answer to current rent tensions brought about by removal of OPA. Set up as a "stopgap" agency pending state or federal action, the committee's decision would be final. The ordinance passed by council last night provides for fines of not more than $50 for violations.

BOARD UPS ESTIMATES BY $45,000

Foresees Costs Running About $130,000 Over Revenue During 1947.

The Mansfield board of education last night adopted a $922,633 operating budget for 1947, nearly $45,000 higher than the 1946 budget submitted last year and nearly $130,000 more than the estimated revenue for 1947.

Requests for money for the general fund amounted to $812,290, compared with last year's request for $801,568, and the bond retirement fund totaled $80,433, or $4,163 more than the $76,270 requested last year.

Biggest single increase in the general fund was that of money for salaries, amounting to $579,750 and comparing with the $560,930 requested last year.

Of those totals, $564,700 was to defray the cost of salaries for instruction in 1947, mostly for teachers, while the comparable figure in the current budget is $545,180.

* * *

Administration Cost Cut.

In contrast, salaries for administrative employes in the 1947 budget totaled $15,050, a reduction of $700 from last year's request for $15,750.

In a written report to the board, Supt. W. L. Miller said that the probable revenue for 1947, based on a tax rate of 7.40 mills and a valuation of $66,250,000, is $792,942. Of this total, $492,100 would be received from taxes $275,842 from the state school foundation, and $25,000 from school property rentals and state money for the operation of special schools, Miller said.

These compare with actual revenue totaling $795,249 in 1946. The $795,249 is composed of $490,250 from taxes, $279,999 from the foundation program and $25,000 in rentals and special school fees, John Eisaman, board clerk, reported.

Other requests in the 1947 budget, as compared with those in the current budget, include:

Administrative office supplies and equipment, $3,800 and $2,788; instruction textbooks and supplies, $27,000 and $22,500; attendance officer and nurses, $5,700 and $5,650; transportation of pupils, $18,000 and $18,000; auxiliary agencies such as lecturers, cooks, retirement, equipment, etc., $56,250 and $49,025; operation of school plant; janitors, $63,000 and $61,900; fuel, $25,000 and $23,000; electricity, $15,000 and $12,000; water, $4,500 and $5,500; telephone and telegraph, $1,900 and $1,300; maintenance of school plant, $29,300 and $28,100.

In the bond retirement fund request, $15,433 was for interest and compares with the $16,270 requested for interest payments in the 1946 budget.

Accompanying the budget when it is sent to the county budget commission will be an enumeration of the average daily attendance in all of Mansfield's schools, including St. Peter's Catholic school and the Country Day school. It shows a total enrollment, as of May 31, of 7,665 children, some 207 fewer than the 7,872 enumerated as of the same date last year.

CLEAR FDR

Committee to Blame Kimmel, Short For Pearl Harbor.

WASHINGTON (INS) Eight of the 10 members of the joint congressional Pearl Harbor committee, it was learned today have absolved the late President Roosevelt and top Washington officials of principal blame for the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster.

Reliable sources said that a majority report will place the burden of responsibility for the catastrophe on the army and navy commanders in Hawaii at the time — Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short and Adm. Husband E. Kimmel.

A minority report in vigorous disagreement with the findings of the majority is expected to be filed, however, by Sens. Ferguson (R) Mich., and Brewster (R) Me.

Decide Whether To Recall Mayor

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) San Francisco voters go to the polls in a special election today to determine whether or not Mayor Roger Lapham shall be recalled from the office he has held since 1943.

The recall election marked the first time in the city's history that a mayor has been challenged while in office. There is no candidate to succeed Lapham. Should he be recalled, county supervisors would select a successor.

Carp, White and Black Crappies Numerous At Dam

Plenty Of Fish In Lake

Net Dropped North Of Route 30.

Fourteen different kinds of fish—totaling 3360 in all—were netted at Charles Mill lake when the state conservation department made a test there early this month.

Sam Moore, of the conservation headquarters at the lake announced today the result of the test

The 14-foot pyke net was dropped July 1 and it fished for 94 hours north of State Route 3.

Moore reports that there is now a lot of vegetation at Charles Mill and the water is high. All fish are biting good, he reported.

Carp was the most numerous of the fish caught in the net—969 of them being counted. Shortest was seven inches and the longest measured 22-inches

Next in number was the black crappie with 787 of them being taken in. One measured 11½ inches while the shortest was 4½.

Of the 787, there were 352 that were exactly seven inches in length.

* * *

White crappies were next with 737 being caught in the net, the longest being 13½ inches. One hundred and 67 were 10 inches, with 139 being 9 inches and 111 measuring 9½ inches.

* * *

Gizzard shad was the next most abundant fish with 542 being snagged One measured 15 inches and 53 were only five inches

Other kinds of fish and the number caught in the net were as follows: blue gills 95, chanel catfish 103, black bullheads, 55; brown bullheads, 25 spotted suckers 32, large mouth bass, 9, golden suckers, 6, red ear sunfish 2 pumpkin sunfish 4, common suckers, 2.

Periodic checks are made by the conservation department to determine their own data on the lakes in the state.

Getting Mansfield's entry ready for the Junior Olympics at Cleveland on Saturday, Aug. 24, is no small problem.

Boys from 12 to 17 begin working out three nights a week starting tomorrow night in preparation for the city meet that will determine the boys who will make up the team.

And probably the most enthusiastic individuals connected with the program are Harry Mehock, who is in charge of the local setup, and his two assistants, Ike Fetter and Bob Shade.

* * *

"It is one of the finest things ever to be offered young athletes here," Mehock states.

* * *

Besides offering a lot of boys a chance to workout this summer and be in good shape for football this fall, it will give some of them an opportunity to seek national honors.

The experience and training will be of real value to them when next spring's track season rolls around

One of the Broadway columnists writes and we quote. "The irrepressible Milton Berle introduced Promoter Mike Jacobs at a New York affair the other night by announcing that Uncle Mike is writing a play about Yankee Stadium entitled "Bill Conn Slept Here."

Haves Gone, Tribe Short On Catchers

BOSTON — (AP) — Bob Feller beaten twice in three starts against the Boston Red Sox this season, tries again today against the American league leaders, with Tex Hughson as his mound foe.

The Indian ace is the only western pitcher to beat the Sox on their home grounds this year, but Boston defeated him once here and once at Cleveland.

After Sunday's double defeat at the hands of the Red Sox, the Indians last night handed the Boston club's Class B New England league farm at nearby Lynn a 2 to 0 setback, with Jim Hegan, Cleveland catcher, starring in his old home town

Hegan, former policeman at Lynn, punched out a fifth inning double to send home the first and winning run. Lou Boudreau, shortstop-manager of the Tribe, took the night off but announced he was ready at any time to step in behind the bat should his depleted catching staff make such a move necessary.

* * *

The receiving corps was down to two men today—Hegan and Tom Jordan—with Frank Hayes going to the Chicago White Sox on waivers, and Sherman Lollar going back to Baltimore on a 24-hour option. Boudreau, who will be 29 tomorrow, has caught several times in the majors, but not since 1941.

Boudreau also revealed that southpaw Charles Gassaway and right hander Bob Lemon probably would take over the starting mound berths held by Steve Gromek and Charles (Red) Embree, who have won only 10 games between them

The Indians announced that the Philadelphia game July 25 and the Boston contest Aug. 1 at Cleveland would be ladies' days with no tickets required by the gentler sex and that effective July 23 the grandstand price for children under 12 would be 6 cents just half the price charged

Liberty, N-L Gain Wins

North Lake returned to the win column last night in the Park softball league with a 13-6 win over Prospect on the former's diamond

Both Logan of the winners and K Berry of Prospect, allowed only eight hits. Bill Dent led the North club at the plate with a home run and double.

Holly, Sauder and Schnugg cracked out two-base knocks for the losers

In a free-scoring game Liberty edged Johns, 11-10, on the Liberty diamond

Baker homered and Simpson doubled for the Libertys while Roudy hit a round-tripper and Crawford and Hunt got doubles for the Johns nine

Pros to Go After Stranahan In Victory National Open

CHICAGO (AP) The golfing boys who play for keeps will be shooting for a slice of two plays [illegible] Fan, Amateur Frank Stranahan when a select 70-player field starts its Sherman Oaks patron open tournament at Medinah country club tomorrow

Fortified with the top dozen money winners now battling to [illegible] Stranahan for the cup [illegible] the [illegible] $2,000 Kansas City Invitational held last week-end, will be [illegible] Champion Byron Nelson

Nelson who ripped a 14-under par 274 [illegible] 72-hole stroke play at Country club last year fanned two strokes off Stranahan's 274 pace at Kansas City, sharing third spot with Jimmy Hines and Harold (Jug) McSpaden

* * *

Nelson hopes to take apart the rugged No. 3 course at Medinah—a hazard-pocked, par 71 layout that rambles 6,929 yards—for reason more than humbling Stranahan, a fellow townsman from Toledo, Ohio.

* * *

After a comparative slow 1946 start Nelson appears to be regaining his brilliant form of last season and if he grabs the $2,500 top swag in the victory and the $10,500 winner's share of the Tam O'Shanter All-American open the following week Lord Byron will be pushing Ben Hogan for money-winning laurels

Hogan who also is in the victors field floundered badly at Kansas City collecting a puny $220 to host his 1946 earnings to $25,211, still some $7,000 better than Nelson has invested

Top pros and amateurs tomorrow will be joined by ranking women golf senior golfers in a two-day, 4-ball competition for pro-lady, pro-senior, pro-senior championships

The open proper begins Friday with two days of 18-hole lay, followed by a final 36-hole round Sunday

District 6 Softball Dates Announced

Final plans for the men's and girls' district softball tournament have been made.

Dates for the men's tourney are August 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 at Smitty's park in Marion.

The girls' tourney will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week at Marion.

Counties making up the sixth district are Richland, Ashland, Marion, Knox, Morrow, Crawford and Wyandot.

Men's teams from Mansfield who are planning to enter the district tourney can get their entry blank at the YMCA. This along with the $10 entry fee and a roster of 15 players should be mailed to Hal Clawson, district commissioner, at the News-Journal.

Entries for the men's tourney must be in by Wednesday noon, July 31, while the girls' entries must be in by this Saturday.

Winner of the men's district play at Marion will compete in the state tournament at Springfield, August 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Girls' district champ will play in the state tourney at Columbus August 16, 17 and 18.

Golden Days Of Harness Racing Back

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind —(INS)—Harness horsemen throughout Indiana have become aware of the dawn of a new era.

The trotters and pacers are back in the "big time" after a passage of 50 years. The golden days that owners and drivers knew back in the 1890's are back

For harness horse racing has come from out the shadows of the corn tassel, and the waving wheat, into the spotlight of major spectator sportdom.

Gone, and the horsemen hope forever, are the days when scant crowds, mostly relatives of horse owners and drivers, filed aimlessly into the grand stands and along the rails at the county fairgrounds to see a few heats.

* * *

Interest in the "sport of gentlemen" has flared anew and many predict that it eventually will outdraw thoroughbred racing. They cite many reasons for this belief, chief of which, they say, is the widespread investigations which have been made recently of "fixed races" and "doped horses."

Although the success of the 200-race meet completed recently at the beautiful Santa Anita Track in California and the heavy handle counted daily at Roosevelt Raceway in New York is proof of the added admirers of the sport, the midwest is still recognized as the center of the harness racing world.

There are more harness meetings scheduled for the state of Ohio this summer than for any other state in the union. Illinois ranks second with Indiana and New York State following in close order

Other states which show much interest in the sulky drawing horses include Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan Canada has 52 meets scheduled this summer while the total number of state which will have racing programs is 32

Take Second Half Lead at Shelby

SHELBY- Laubies Shell filling station went into the lead in the second half of the Shelby softball season by defeating the CIO-Steelworkers union, 18 to 3 Monday night for its second consecutive win

Bob Laubie held the Steelworkers to a no hit, no run game for that time Julius Clabaugh pitched four innings of the game for Laubies and gave two hits and three runs in the seventh inning

A C Brumbach officiated for the game in the absence of Jim Yarman who is on vacation

The Depot and Legion will meet tonight for a game at 6 p m. on the waterworks field

Junior Olympic Practice Starts

Preparations for the Mansfield entry in the Junior Olympics, being held at Cleveland, August 24, got underway last evening out at the high school stadium.

Coach Harry Mehock, flanked by assistants Ike Fetter and Bob Shade, signed up the 24 boys who showed up at the first meeting. Mehock predicted a turnout of at least a 100 by the end of the week.

At present the schedule for practice in the evenings will be Monday, Wednesday and Fridays, everyone to be on the field and ready to go at 6:30. Mehock stressed the need for more competition, the necessity of being in condition for the eliminations which will be run off in the middle of August.

He spoke highly of the Junior Olympics program which is in its first year and said, "This is a chance for the youngsters to get good clean competitive exercise to fill in the summer."

Positions are wide open on each of the three teams. Mehock urged all the boys to tell the others and for everyone to get out to the stadium Wednesday evening and make this first Mansfield entry one for the others to look up to in the years to follow.

He also stressed the fact that this would give him a good chance to look over all the future aspirants for the high school track team, and his desire to get as many boys out as possible in the 12 to 13 age bracket.

Boys who signed up last night for the different teams were: 12-13—Dave Edgerton; Tom Talman, Jim Conrady, Clarence Bailey, Herm Stillwell, Aaron Butts, and Jack Bargerhiser. 14-15—Bob Rehm, Paul Ferguson, Ruby Sheets, John Papcun, Bob Keller, Dave Wappner, Carl Whisler, Tom Tucker, Merle Yoder, Billy Turner, and Al Jones. 16-17—Bill McKee, Harold Leppert, Bob Kibler, Martin Bricker, and Gene Flegm.

* * *

All the boys are to receive a medical examination as part of the first week's schedule.

Practice sessions are open to all parents and any others who wish to come out and watch the teams get into shape.

The events in the various groups are as follows: 12-13—60 yd dash, 60 yd. low hurdles, 240 yd. shuttle relay; standing broad jump; and 12" baseball throw for distance.

14-15—75 yd. dash; 60 yd. low hurdles, 240 yd. shuttle relay; half mile relay; running broad jump; running high jump; and the 8 lb. shot put.

16-17—100 yd. dash; 220 yd. dash; 440 yd run; 880 yd. run; mile relay: 880 yd. relay; 120 yd. high hurdles; 220 yd. low hurdles; running high jump; running broad jump and the 12 lb. shot put; pole vault.

Mehock was very optimistic of the teams chances in Cleveland, and from the amount of boys who notified him that they would be out to the future practices, can count on taking a strong Mansfield contingent to the Cleveland finals.

Giants Move Up In OSL

(By United Press)

The Springfield Giants moved 3½ games ahead in the Ohio State league race last night when they downed the Lima Terriers in a night doubleheader, 4-2 and 4-3.

Meanwhile the second-place Zanesville Dodgers dropped two to the Richmond Roses, 6-5 and 6-5, and cut down their lead over the third-place Roses to only 5½ games.

The Newark Moundsmen split a twin bill with seventh place Middletown. The Moundsmen dropped the opener, 10-3, but captured the nightcap by the narrow margin of 8-7. This put the fourth-place Newarkites only 2½ games behind Richmond.

The remaining contest of the evening, a single bill, saw Marion go under to the Dayton Indians, 12-5.

GAME POSTPONED

The YMCA announced today that the Independent league game between Klein Furs and Shell Oil set for Liberty Park has been postponed Several of the Klein players are on vacation.

Musial Slams Out Four Hits Against Dodgers

Durocher Tossed From Game; Cubs Continue to Set Hot Pace.

By RALPH RODEN, AP Sports Writer.

Boston can have Ted Williams, its colorful thumping outfielder. St. Louis fans will take Stanley Frank Musial, the belting Pole from Donora, Pa., who is punishing National league hurling at a .367 clip and leading Eddie Dyer's Red Birds in their drive to overtake the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Musial, who roamed the outfield for the Cards prior to this season, has been holding down first base since early June in addition to belting the ball in his pre-war style.

The 25-year-old star, who leads his league in hits, runs scored, doubles and triples has enjoyed some of his biggest days at the plate against the Dodgers.

Before 26,476 fans at Sportsman's park last night, Musial sparked the red hot Cards to a 10-4 victory over the Brooks by smashing four hits in five trips to the plate, including a homer and triple.

The victory was the Cards' third in a row over Brooklyn and it narrowed the Dodgers margin to one-and-one-half games. St. Louis hopped on Hugh Casey for two runs in the opening inning and iced the decision by scoring three more runs in the fourth and fifth frames.

In all, the Cards rapped five Dodger hurlers for 13 hits in the battle, marked by the banishment of Manager Leo Durocher and Outfielder Pete Reiser of Brooklyn in the third inning when they protested a decision by Umpire Al Barlick. Reiser claimed he had caught Enos Slaughter's line drive, but Barlick ruled he had trapped the ball. After five minutes of argument the arbiter tossed both of them out of the conflict.

Chicago's third place Cubs advanced to within four-and-one-half games of Brooklyn as Hooks Wyse pitched the defending National league champions to a 3-1 victory over the New York Giants.

Ed Waitkus batted in two of Chicago's markers with two singles as Wyse became the third senior league hurler to notch ten victories.

Although defeating the Pittsburg Pirates 3-2, the Boston Braves dropped into a fourth place deadlock with the Cincinnati Reds, who downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2.

In the American league, the Detroit Tigers defeated the slumping New York Yankees 2-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Freddie Hutchinson before 39,893 night game fans at New York.

It was Detroit's third straight triumph over the Yanks and moved the third place Bengals to within one-and-one-half games of the runner-up Yanks.

Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics also turned in a two-hit triumph, whitewashing the Chicago White Sox 12-0. The Mackmen clinched the game in the second inning when they pounded five runs home.

The St. Louis Browns fell into a fifth place deadlock with the Cleveland Indians, who, along with the front-running Red Sox, were not scheduled. The Browns lost 4-2 their battle with Washington Senators.

Fans Stand In Line to Buy Buck Tickets

COLUMBUS—(AP)—An unprecedented football boom at Ohio State university was predicted by athletic officials today as harried ticket sellers opened shop for the second day of the fall sale.

Long streams of fans, comparing favorably with nylon and meat lines on a heavy day, started off the rush yesterday for tickets for the Bucks' five home games. The line started to form two hours before the window opened.

An assistant ticket sales director, H. Wade Kraner, declared as he pointed to a backlog of 12,000 mail orders (he got 2,000 yesterday):

"We've never had a rush like this in the history of the stadium. We've had similar rushes for individual games about two weeks ahead of the game, but never have we had a rush like this so early in the year."

Here are Kraner's explanations for the big crush:

1. Many returned veterans are anxious to see games after long absences. (2) A record OSU enrollment. (3) People have more money.

Season tickets for the team's home games—there will be no general admission seats—have been allotted thusly: 12,600 for students (price: $7.50); 4,000 for faculty members; 14,000 for the general public (price: $15).

Sales for the season, which opens here with the Missouri game Sept. 28, close Aug. 24.

STOCKS STEADY IN SPOTS, BUT MARKET'S WEAK

Steels Recovering, But Many Leaders Still Continue to Slip Down.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market steadied in spots today, with steels recovering, but many leaders continued to seek lower territory.

Persisting as brakes on sentiment, however, was uncertainty over price controls, tightening short term money rates, consumers' strikes against rising living cost and lagging production in most fields.

Dealings, active in the forenoon, slowed somewhat.

Edging into the plus column were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Equitable Office Building, Kennecot and Great Northern.

Montgomery Ward weakened coincident with the beginning of trading in "rights" on the company's new stock on a "when issued" basis. Backward were Chrysler, General Motors, J. I. Case, International Harvester, J. C. Penney, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, International Nickel, Schenley, Armour, Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio.

SCHOOL BOARD FILLS 4 JOBS; 6 QUIT POSTS

Accepts Resignations, Grants Leave of Absence at Last Night's Meeting.

Six resignations, four appointments, one retirement, one leave of absence and one contract adjustment were accepted, approved or granted by the Mansfield board of education last night.

Leaving the school system after their resignations were accepted are Doris Mann Saylor, teacher at Newman school, who is leaving the city; Ruth Deeds, teacher at Bushnell school, who has accepted another position; Genieve Rogers, school nurse, who wants to resume her household duties; and Marjorie Sheehe, clerk of John Simpson junior high school, who has accepted another position.

In addition, resignations of two custodians were accepted. George Mitchell, head custodian at Senior high, and Leonard Sellers, assistant janitor at Senior high, resigned effective July 15.

Appointed were Frances Gage, elementary teacher, at a total contract rate of $1,850; Mabel Husted, school nurse, at a contract rate of $1,850; Constance Derr, clerk at John Simpson junior high school, at a rate of $85 per month plus the $150 adjustment; and Barney F. Adams, Class B laborer, at a base rate of $1,510.

Retiring was George Wolfe, head custodian of Newman school, effective June 30, and winning a leave of absence so she could continue graduate study at Miami university was Anita Strauch, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

The board advanced the base salary of Harry Hostetler, industrial arts teacher at Johnny Appleseed, from $2,100 to $2,300 by reason of his obtaining a bachelor's degree this summer.

AGREE TO HOLD TEACHER PAY LEVY SESSION

School Board Members Hear Vigorous Protests at Budget Session.

increase salaries without an additional levy."

"We have explored the problem of immediate relief and find that nothing can be done between now and Jan. 1, 1947, which would be the earliest effective date of an additional levy if one is passed by the voters next November," Bruce said.

Paul Hauserman, president of the Mansfield Federation of Teachers, proposed that a new salary scale be drawn on the basis of estimated receipts from a new operating levy and that 85 per cent of the scale be paid until Jan. 1 and 115 per cent after that date.

Bruce pointed out, however, that law prevented the board from acting this year on the basis of next year's prospects. Hauserman's proposal was also predicated on the belief that a new operating levy would win approval from the voters.

Jesse Clark, president of the Teachers association and principal of Western school, told the board that teachers face a severe crisis.

"A salary of $150 or $200 per month is simply not enough. The way prices are rising now we can't survive on it," he told board members.

Mrs. C. J. Kalstein, a representative of the Parent-Teachers association council, urged the board to act quickly.

"Many teachers are leaving Mansfield because of the salary situation. It's not a question of loyalty but only of the times in which we live. We should do something about it now instead of after the teachers have left," she said.

Also asking the board to do everything possible to raise the teachers' salaries were C. A. Divelbiss, principal of Woodland school, and Harry Hostetler, industrial arts teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

Present last night were board members Bruce, Arlin, W. O. Leedy and A. F. Fankhauser.

Dies Within Few Hours of Her Mother

ASHLAND—Services are being arranged at the Fickes funeral home in Jeromesville for Mrs. Myrtle Inez Sours, 60, who died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leroy Warner of near Lakefork, only a few hours after the death of her mother, Mrs. George Eineman at Van Wert. The arrangements are being delayed because of Mrs. Eineman's death.

Mrs. Sours, widow of the late Eugene Sours, leaves five daughters, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Mabel Eckoff of Coloma, Mich.; Mrs. Virginia steward and Mrs. Lois Steward, both of Ashland, R. D., and Mrs. Helen Flickinger of near Jeromesville; four sons, Paul of Jeromesville, Kenneth, Donald and William of near Lake Fork; one brother, Curtis Eineman of Ann Arbor, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. George Whitten of Van Wert.

C. J. BUHMANN

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held at Attica today for Charles J. Buhmann, 75, dairyman and cattle fancier, who died at Bucyrus City hospital Saturday afternoon, 24 hours after being attacked by a bull in the farmyard at his home, three miles south of Attica on route 4. Burial was made in Attica cemetery.

Mr. Buhmann was found in the barnyard by his wife Friday afternoon shortly after the attack.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Buhmann came to Attica in 1918 and was married a year later to Emma Smeltz who survives with one daughter, Margaret, a teacher in the Tiffin schools. He was a 32nd degree Mason.

W. M. BECK

GALION—Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Snyder funeral home for William M. Beck, a lifelong resident of Galion and community by Rev. Norman R. Somerville, pastor of the First Methodist church. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Beck lived at 330 Cherry street. He died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy E. Kishler, Junction City. He was the last of a family of eight children.

Surviving are three daughters and two sons, Mrs. Kishler of Junction City; Mrs. C. Ruth Vance of Wampum, Pa.; Mrs. Paul Miller of Mansfield; Whitney S. Beck of Drip Rock, Ky.; and Oliver T. Beck of Pittsburgh, Pa. There are 16 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Mr. Beck was a retired farmer and a member of the First Methodist church. He was a native of Crawford county.

U. H. BOYD

MILLERSBURG — Umphrey H. Boyd, 87, Berlin township farmer, died in Pomerene Memorial hospital here early today of complications resulting from a hip injury received June 20.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Vickersheet, Millersburg, Route 5, Mrs. Joseph A. Mitten, of Cuyahoga Falls, Edythe, at home, a son, Fletcher, at home, and two grandchildren. His wife, Belle, died in 1931.

Rev. H. H. Creager, of Barberton, will conduct funeral services at the home Friday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Berlin cemetery. Arrangements are being made by the Elliott funeral home.

MRS. WILBUR BISEL

BELLVILLE— Mrs. Wilbur Bisel, 74, who resided five miles west of here on the Beech Hollow farm, died Monday in White Cross hospital, Columbus, where she had been a patient for the last 10 weeks.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fern B. Peat, artist and illustrator of children's books and magazines, who lives at the farm, a son, Fenton, who is general secretary of the Bartlesville, Okla., YMCA, four granddaughters, and two great-grandchildren. One grandson William Peat was killed in a bomber crash in Mississippi four years ago.

She also is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fred Ball, of Worthington.

Rev. W. A. Hewitt, of the Bellville Methodist church, will conduct funeral services at the church on Thursday at 2 p. m. Friends may call at the Snyder funeral home in Bellville until noon of that day.

YOUTH ADMITS PLANNING TO MURDER CHILD

Alleged Oral Confesion Shows Degnan Girl's Slaying as 'Premeditated.'

Heirens came into court today for arraignment on 29 burglary, assault and robbery charges. His attorneys, saying they came into possession of the indictments only yesterday, asked a continuance. Criminal Court Judge Harold C. Ward gave Heirens until Aug. 14, when he will hear motions which Heirens' attorneys may file, or on a plea.

Heirens, who began burglarizing when he was nine years old, attended a movie with a college friend and a girl the night of Jan. 6. Afterwards, he rode the elevated lines to the northside and walked a few blocks to the neighborhood of the Degnan home.

Thought Degnan Rich.

Heirens had been a delivery boy for a liquor store in the section, a north side residential area. He knew the home. He thought there was money there. The child's father, James, earned $7,500 a year, although the youth thought he was a wealthy man.

Heirens had "spotted" the child and her bedroom previously while burglarizing another home in the area.

After reaching the Degnan home, shortly before 2 a. m., on the morning of Jan. 7, he picked up a small ladder in the yard.

He placed the ladder against a rear wall of the Degnan home and climbed through the window of the child's bedroom. She was sleeping. He threw a sack over her head, picked her up and carried her on his shoulder down the ladder and into an alley.

Near the mouth of the alley, the child woke up and cried out.

Heirens apparently had not intended to kill the child at that moment, intending to wait until he reached a nearby basement with which he had become familiar during his work as a delivery boy.

But he feared discovery—the same fear that earlier had motivated the shooting and knifing of Miss Brown and the strangulation and knifing of Mrs. Ross.

So, in the quiet of the early winter morning, he strangled the child with his hands, within a few yards of her home.

There now remained the body. He feared that it might be found too quickly unless he disposed of it completely. He carried the body to the basement, located in an apartment at 5901 Winthrop ave., and placed it in one section of a wash tub.

There, with a hunting knife he had carried with him, he severed the child's head, arms and legs. Then he carried the pieces, some wrapped in paper, others in bags, to various catch basins within a five or six block radius of the child's home. He threw the head in one, the arms in another, the torso in a third, and the legs in still another. Apparently, he hoped that the pieces would be washed away, eliminating the possibility of discovery by police.

Mentions Girl's Arms.

But, within hours, the head, legs and torso were recovered by police. The arms were found in a sewer four blocks from the home Feb. 19. The United Press sources said that in his oral confession Heirens specifically mentioned the arms and that he put them there.

He left a ransom note, demanding $20,000, on the floor of the child's bedroom. His brief oral confession, however, did not clarify whether he left the note when he stole the child or returned to the home after disposing of her body and threw the note into the window.

The brutality of the Degnan slaying was equally evident in the slaying of Mrs. Ross and Miss Brown.

Mrs. Ross, 43, was found slain in her apartment at 4108 Kenmore avenue, about 18 blocks from the Degnan home, on June 5, 1945.

Less than six months later, on Dec. 10, 1945, he entered the north side apartment of Frances Brown, 28, who had been honorably discharged from the WAVES only three months previously. He shot her through the head and arm, then waited cautiously until he felt sure the shots had not attracted attention.

Finding her still alive he stabbed her in the chest with a 10-inch bread knife, then thrust it into her skull at the base.

The state's attorney's office, Heirens' attorneys, and Heirens himself, have denied he made any confession. Heirens' latest denial came last night in his cell after he had heard a United Press radio news broadcast of his admissions.

He was scheduled to be arraigned in criminal court today on 29 indictments charging him with 24 burglaries and five instances of assault.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Murphy flies a specially designed German Bucker-Jungemeister plane, now being overhauled by the Harrington Air Service for the show. During the war he trained glider troops and was among the first to land by glider in the Normandy invasion.

Edmondson flies a clipped-wing Monocoupe, capable of doing 200 miles an hour. One of his stunts is to fly upside down at top speed only 15 feet off the ground. During the war he instructed RAF fliers in combat tactics at an army base in Florida.

While these stunt pilots are showing how versatile small planes can be, another feature of the show—the pageant of personal aircraft—will demonstrate how practical they can be for the average flier.

Claim Man Kidnaps His Two Daughters

DAYTON —(UP)— Police today sounded a nation-wide alarm for a California man wanted in connection with the alleged abduction of his two daughters from their home in nearby Vandalia, O.

Waldron Robert Burns of Long Beach, Calif., was accused in a warrant sworn out by his former wife, Mrs. David Hollinger, of kidnapping his two daughters, Marilyn, 14, and Madilyn, 5.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The first of 1,000,000 men's suite made of surplus fabric will go on sale to veterans next month, it was learned today.

RAPS LAXITY

'Letterhead' Promoters Got Contracts, Says Mead.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Sen. Mead (D) N. Y., accused the war department today of "gross laxity" in failing to investigate before advancing sums to a "letterhead" war contract company whose promoters had questionable records.

The chairman of the senate war investigating committee announced that his group will recommend that contract laws contain "a strong provision" for investigation of contract applicants before they are given authority to "spend government money."

SETS LIMITS

Truman Fixes Draft Age at 19 Through 29.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Truman today directed that future vacancies in the armed forces be filled in the age group of 19 through 29 years.

The chief executive approved a recommendation by the Selective Service system to that effect.

The previous draft age, set by an interim Selective Service measure, was from 20 through 29 years. Today's order thus drops the age group by one year to include the 19-year-olds.

Work on a specially arranged Quonset hut, to be used as the operations office for the dedication and sky show is nearly completed. This building, a temporary addition, is being set up by the Pioneer Steel Building company.

By Thursday, the speakers' stand will be erected. It will be located about 200 yards north of the Sky club.

An elaborate parking design has been set up for ground display craft. Some will be on the apron of the original airport, east of the Sky club, and others will be on the next taxi strip at the end of the row of hangars.

Provisions have also been made for the installation of first aid and Red Cross facilities. Special drinking fountains are being installed and concession booths will be set up in the next few days. Under the direction of city sanitation officials, additional toilet facilities will also be installed.

APPROVE CITY'S BIGGEST BUDGET IN 100 YEARS

Shelby Council Passes Request For $116,070 to Operate Government in '47.

SHELBY — A budget setting up $116,070 for operation of the municipal government and for police and firemen pension funds here during 1947 was approved by city council at its regular semi-monthly meeting last night at city hall.

Presented by Finance Director Chester P. Monn, the budget, largest in the more than 100-year history of this city, set aside $98,720 in the general fund· $500 for the firemen's pension fund; $2,350 for the policemen's pension fund; and $2,100 for elections, workmen's compensation and other expense taken out by the county.

The general fund for next year is $6,000 higher than the one set up for 1946, Finance Director Monn pointed out, to take care of salary increases approved this year. The 1947 budget is $5,850 higher than the one set up for this year which totaled $110,220.

The budget will go to the county budget commission which will revise the funds to the amount of money estimated to be received from taxes and other revenue. It will then be returned to council for final approval and the annual appropriation ordinance will be passed in January setting aside the various money to the different city departments.

Supt. J. P. Adkins of the municipal utilities revealed to council that Friebel and Hartman, Shelby contractors, would start on the addition to municipal light company later this week. Steel for the building will not be available until Dec. 15, he pointed out. The new building will house another boiler for the plant.

Councilman-at-large Ross Sipes presided over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Frank Long, who is on his vacation.

Clark avenue residents were present at the meeting to ask if the sidewalk along the street could be moved four feet toward the curb to give the property owners a larger yard. It was pointed out that there was an eight-foot grass plot planned for the street between the curb and sidewalk. Council referred the matter to City Engineer Boyd Wierman of Mansfield.

ASKS PRACTICE FOR FIREMEN

Shelby Better Business Club Petitions Council to Stage Trial Runs.

SHELBY—Shelby Better Business club presented a resolution to city council at its regular semi-monthly meeting last night, asking that the fire department make a trial run every week to give the firemen fire fighting practice.

The resolution called the attention of council to the fact that the volunteer firemen receive no training and recommend that the men in the department take part in dry drills.

It also said that the axes were dull, that there was a lack of masks to fight fires, and that Fire Chief Eugene Schull should inspect the buildings in the fire district. It went on to state that many of the downtown business places had basements filled with boxes which were a fire hazard.

The resolution also called on the police department to enforce the two-hour parking in the business district downtown.

PLACED UNDER BOND

BUCYRUS — Oscar Rankin of Crestline was placed under $50 bond for appearance in juvenile court to answer a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor yesterday. The charge was brought by the mother of a minor.

SPEAKS BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

Rev. C. V. Roop Emphasizes Need For Service to Mankind at Galion Meeting.

GALION—Emphasizing that a combination of faith, obedience, and love would work toward service of mankind, Rev. C. V. Roop, pastor of the United Brethren church, was principal speaker last night at the Galion Rotary club dinner meeting. His subject was "Supremacy of Service."

Rev. Roop was introduced by the program chairman, Howard Nussbaum.

During the business session for which Russell Post presided, dues were increased, and an admission fee was established for new members. Announcement was made of the district assembly to be held Thursday at Fostoria, and of the "Ladies' Night" meeting Friday with the Mansfield Rotary club at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

M. D. Bonsteel told of the proposed Galion-Crestline airport, and urged Rotary members to back the project.

Guests of the club were E. C. Wegner of Cleveland, and Milton Poorman, president of the Cardington Rotary club.

Mansfielder Announces New Head of Institute.

Tolman Burns, 53 Linden road, trustee of Oneida Institute, Oneida, Ky., today announced the appointment of Dr. E. Jay Shumaker of Granville to the presidency of the school for mountaineers, founded more than 50 years ago by Burns' cousin, the late James Anderson Burns.

For the past 30 years Dr. Shumaker has been a member of the faculty of Denison university and is present associate professor of English. President Kenneth I. Brown of Denison, announced that Dr. Shumaker has been granted a two-year leave of absence to assume the new position later this month.

Dr. Shumaker will succeed Dr. Saul Hounchell, on the staff of Oneida Institute for the past 25 years.

'Trails' Ex-Wife, Gets Fined On Two Counts In City Court

Pursuing his ex-wife last night cost Osler LaBarre, 109 Lind avenue, $60 and costs on two charges in Municipal court today.

LaBarre was found guilty of having physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and was fined $50 and costs on the first charge.

He pleaded guilty to another charge of being drunk and disorderly which was filed by his divorced wife, Velma LaBarre, 27 Lamberton avenue, who said LaBarre trailed her in his car as she was walking home.

Although he was released from the county jail only yesterday William O'Brien, Mansfield, was fined $50 and costs today and was ordered to the Columbus Workhouse to work out his fine for intoxication.

O'Brien has been cited 18 times in the past two and one-half years in municipal court on charges of intoxication, Clerk of Courts Paul Ritchie reported.

In what was the lowest fine handed down by municipal court for a speeding violation in several months, Fred Reeves, of Powell, was fined $5 and costs. Reeves told the court that he was doing 65 miles per hour while passing another car. He was arrested by Highway Patrol officers.

Billy McKechen, 298 Third avenue, was fined $15 and costs for speeding 72 miles per hour on Route 42 North after he was found guilty. Arrest was made by Highway Patrol officers.

Not heard in court today because the complaining witness failed to appear was the assault and battery case filed against Eugene McPeak, Ashland road, by his wife Irma McPeak.

SAFE ROBBED

Galion Firm Entered, Several Hundred Dollars Taken.

GALION — Police today were looking for the person or persons who stole several hundred dollars from a small safe in the Buckeye Frozen Lockers office some time between 10 p. m. Sunday and Monday morning.

Harvey C. Huy, proprietor, told police the combination of the safe was knocked off to gain entrance. Entry into the building was made through a window at the north of the building, access to which was from the roof of a frame building used as a storage place adjacent to the Buckeye Frozen Lockers.

Boys Clean Up Thrown Garbage

Officers Charles Condon and Edward Varga answered a call from O. K. Wade, 279 Buckley avenue, who complained that boys had thrown garbage on his front porch and had broken his window.

After rounding up the boys the policemen stood by while they scrubbed Wade's porch, then ordered the parents to pay for the window.

Files Damage Suit Appeal

An appeal on questions of law to the district court of appeals had been filed in common pleas court by Maynard L. Granger today after his suit for $10,000 damages against Frank Mashuda, former airport grading contractor, failed.

Common pleas court ruled against Granger in returning a directed verdict in favor of Mashuda who was accused of negligence when a bulldozer of his collided with Granger's auto on State Route 314 Dec. 18, 1944.

Granger filed his appeal from the court's verdict and its refusal to grant him a new trial. H. M. Rust is Granger's attorney.

Shelby to Revive Community Street Fair In September

SHELBY — Community street fair on Main street downtown will be revived here after not being held since 1941, it was disclosed today by the Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce, who will sponsor the event this year.

Stopped because of World War II, the annual street fair brought thousands of persons to Shelby to take part in the four-day event which featured one of the best displays of farm products shown in this section of Ohio.

During its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday night, city council approved giving the use of Main street between the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and Church street to the Jaycees for use of a street fair on Sept. 25, 26, 27 and 28, providing the state highway department would not be resurfacing the street at that time.

Three Jaycees, Jim Shepherd, John Russell and Fred McKinney, appeared before the council to ask for the street for the annual fair. It was pointed out that Richland county was only sponsoring a junior fair this year and that the street fair here would be the only one in this section of the country.

The Gooding rides and shows will again be a feature of the fair. The Junior Chamber of Commerce will put up $300 for premiums and other awards for the farm produce displays.

The affair will be carried on as in the past with all area farmers and granges invited to send in produce for the displays. The premium books will be issued later in the summer.

HALT CITY SERVICES

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1946

One difficulty in Europe is to distinguish between loot and souvenirs.

America: The land of opportunity, where in one generation a family can rise from a plain cabin to a cabin plane.

It appears that a "trillion" can be either big or little—for instance, in Hungary 100 trillion pengoes in paper money equals about $3.85 in our money—which serves as an example of real inflation.

Rising Prices Forecast Hardships

ADJUSTMENT to the higher prices of essential commodities is not being found easy by wage earners who are not yet among those whose income has been increased in proportion to required outlay for food.

The single item of milk, for instance, the jump from 14 to 17 cents a quart, within two months, is slightly above 21 per cent—a considerable weekly item to those who are accustomed to providing an ample home supply of milk for several growing children.

Drop-off in butter sales shows that the price of 81 to 84 cents a pound has been considered prohibitive by many families, and this is also the situation in regard to meat.

It is explained, clearly enough, that withdrawal of subsidy payments by the government has made price increases necessary in order to meet the difference—consumers now paying directly what had previously gone to producers under the cloak of subsidies.

With no hope being held out that OPA effectiveness will be restored, insofar as food items are concerned, the present problem of families held to lower bracket incomes is to keep down expenditures in the face of increasing prices, without depriving themselves—especially children—of the essentials of a nourishing diet.

If things continue as they now are, approach to the verge of starvation can be foreseen for some of the people of this country—unnecessary as this may appear in "a land of plenty."

Potofsky Named To Succeed Hillman

EXTENT to which the American labor movement has been dependent on foreign-born leaders is given further emphasis by the selection of Jacob F. Potofsky, native of Russia, to succeed the late Sidney Hillman, native of Lithuania, as president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, CIO.

Potofsky, who had been secretary-treasurer of the union since 1940, had worked closely with Hillman for many years and has pledged himself to follow along the same lines.

From English-born Samuel Gompers, one of the early great leaders of American union labor, it is noteworthy that foreign soil has contributed many of the men who have made the cause of labor their life work after immigrating to this country, including Philip Murray, born in Scotland; David Dubinsky, native of Poland; Daniel J. Tobin, Ireland; Alvanley Johnston, Canada, and Harry Bridges, Australia.

Native sons among outstanding labor leaders include John L. Lewis, William Green, A. F. Whitney, James C. Petrillo and Walter Reuther, and it appears likely, with continuance of education, this country will eventually be able to increase the percentage of capability in labor leadership, so as not to continue so strongly dependent on those who received their early training in other countries.

Dime Lockers Assume Mystery Role

THE DIME check locker was considered a great invention when it first appeared. The burdened traveler could stow his suitcase in a private cubby hole in a railroad station, pocket the key while he went about his business, and at train time could get his belongings out without standing in line at a crowded baggage room.

The lockers multiplied in number and sprouted in more public places. People ignored the dingy, ordinary look they gave to the most handsome depots for the sake of the convenience they offered.

Overnight, recently, dime lockers were lifted out of their prosaic role to become associated with adventure and the mystery stories of the day. The fabulous German jewels stolen by an army officer and his wife were left—not in a little black satchel, or the secret compartment of a trunk—but in a dime locker.

Now the missing atom bomb films are said to be lost in one of the thousands of check lockers in New York City. The army courier who left them there has the key, all right. He just can't remember which locker.

More Time for Outdoor Sports

A SAN FRANCISCAN, who two summers ago was firing mortar shells at Nazis, is back in Europe wielding a tennis racquet in pre-war's famous Wimbledon, with the Queen Mother, Mary, and Prime Minister Attlee looking on. The Californian has the good American and famous English name of Tom Brown and the titled English saw him trounce their favorite tennis player, Tony Mottram.

There is a great revival everywhere of outdoor games, professional and amateur. The world has time, once more, to let its young men battle for sport titles instead of war objectives, and that's a fine thing to think about in this still troubled 1946.

Recommended procedure in avoiding a cold, is to "keep at a non-kissing distance, or farther, from anyone who has one"—which might also prove effective in preventing some other ailments.

Claude Callan suggests: "If you find yourself a misfit in the world, don't try to change yourself. Just work the world over to fit you."

Now that they are splitting atoms, some writers are saying the same privilege should be accorded infinitives.

Word comes that a haircut in San Mateo, Calif., now costs $1.25—and that's trimming 'em . . . both ways.

AND THE COW JUMPED OVER THE MOON

Unified Control Idea Is Gaining

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE MOLOTOV proposal to unify Germany and thus enable it to operate as an economic unit seems generally acceptable to Messrs. Bevin and Byrnes. The Soviet government, in making the proposal, is not only following long-term self-interest, but is consistent with the policies it held three and four years ago.

In September, 1943, this column commented on a small news story to the effect that one Eugene Varga had revealed Russia's prospective claims against Germany. This man, relatively unknown in the United States, held then and probably still holds a very important place in Soviet policy-making.

He said that ten million Germans should work ten years to repair the damage wrought by German armies in Russia. An examination of his proposal convinced me that this claim represented monetary reparations of $10 billion. That is the figure now presented by Molotov.

The question came up at Yalta, and, while no figures were announced, President Roosevelt said it would not be a bad idea to let German workers repair some of the damage done by German soldiers.

Such a proposal of reparations in kind could never work out with exactitude, however. In the confused situation which has prevailed over the past year, it is clear that the Soviet government has been improvising as it went along.

It has seized a great deal of German equipment, but there are authentic reports that full use of this material has not been made in Russia. Much of it has been merely hauled to Russia and dumped.

Presumably, the Soviet leaders have decided that Germans have been taken to Russia, and large numbers of prisoners have been held. But how effectively this manpower has been used is not clear.

Secretary Byrnes has agreed in principle with the Russian idea of unifying Germany, but has pointed out that Russia has already acquired a good deal on the reparations account.

Koenigsberg, for example, is one of the finest ports in Europe. Such an acquisition, as well as an accounting of men and machinery taken by Russia, should be deducted from the $10 billion claim.

The plain truth, which is becoming clear to Bevin, Byrnes and Molotov, is that if Germany is unified and back at work, all three of their countries will get far more than could be collected in punitive reparations.

Russia would be able to exchange goods and get invaluable technical equipment from Germany. Britain would be relieved of the expense of large-scale occupation and would, in turn, develop profitable trade. The United States would be relieved of a large part of the cost of occupation and of feeding the people of western Germany.

The French, who are intent on security above all, should be assured by a plan to establish what Byrnes calls "controls and small security forces." Mass occupation and further division into zones is intolerable.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, July 16, 1926.

Busy day at county treasurer's office, with people waiting in line to pay taxes.

Russell May went to Huntington, W. Va., to take charge of an insurance agency.

Mrs. Christian Hoover, 91, died at her home, 142 Helen avenue.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Wentz, West Fourth street; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Yingling, 27 Ford street, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sunstrom, East Mansfield.

Frederick J. Remington, assistant chief clerk at reformatory, was appointed field officer of the institution.

Clarence Dawson was appointed patrolman in the police department.

Report of health department showed fewer cases of contagious diseases in Mansfield than at any time in ten months.

Farmer's Diary: "Going to the Circus."

FOR MORE than three weeks the gaudy billboards advertised the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey circus in our town. It was our children's favorite topic of conversation, morning, noon and night.

"All the neighbors are going to take their kids . . . why can't we go? You'll take us, won't you, Daddy?"

It was kind of pleasant to hesitate, and listen to them try to overcome my unspoken objections.

The oldest boy helped finish the neighbors' wheat cutting that morning; the second boy, who had been helping another farmer "get off" for the afternoon, and made a trip to the village to buy himself needed shoes, with his own earnings; the two younger boys scrubbed themselves in Honey Creek - invited a hair cut, though the clippers are old and apt to pinch; and all four were dressed and ready - teeth brushed, hair combed, smelling of scented soap.

One remarked as an aside that the animals "will sure be surprised when they see us."

At two we were on our way and before the hour of opening all four boys and I walked briskly toward the big tent.

Things had balled up for the circus people. The day was overly hot with storm threatening. We walked about the big red rubber-tired wagons pulled by tractors and saw glimpses of lions, tigers, monkeys, parrots, seals, elephants, horses and small ponies.

Thunder rumbled. The base of great thunderheads was dark rising in the northwest. For shelter and out of curiosity, we walked through the open flap of the big tent to watch the crews prepare the 500-foot tent for the guests.

A foreman gave us a quick once over. "We're short of help," he said to me. "Won't you and your boys carry and set up chairs. The crowd is here and they'll have to get in out the rain. People are bound to come in, and we're not near ready."

Along with a score of other boys and men we grabbed the chairs and started our circus career. (It was work, as in any other line.) The heavy rain lasted through the time of showing. The three great rings had water in them. The sleek horses sloshed and slid as they went through their paces. Girls in glittering shorts bounded skilfully on and off through spritzes of mud and water.

I watched the faces of the two boys eight and six grow curious as troops of clowns performed strange pranks. High up near the top of the large tent three men and a girl performed on thin stretched cables with bicycles and a small chair. Then swinging like notes from a music staff, they whirled into syncopated time—heads and heels mixed and alternated, in a matter of seconds, like a chickadee's twist . . . ending as suddenly as they began . . . leaving all four boys and their Dad sitting high and dry, still wondering.

Wonderful Self-Control.

A most remarkable statement was that made by Howard Hughes, airplane designer, regarding the cause of the crash of his plane. Told by his doctor that his prospect for living was uncertain, Hughes proceeded to give a perfectly clear objective and unemotional account of what had happened in the accident. The investigators were told just what to look for, because, as Hughes said, he didn't want "this to happen to somebody else."

In the process of learning the new art of flight after the invention of the airplane, Orville Wright deliberately involved himself in various crashes and made the same sort of lucid scientific record of his observations that Hughes made.

The great airmen must have the self-control demonstrated by the Wrights and others down to Howard Hughes a self-control beyond admiration, almost beyond comprehension.—Kansas City Star.

Watching Trends

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON—Sticklers for sartorial correctness have to agree that the membership of the house of representatives does all right in this respect.

Fact is, the house is a well-dressed body. The distinction is achieved without the presence of a single member who might correctly be termed a "clothes horse." Good taste in attire generally prevails.

Only exception is that occasionally a member will sport a tie that verges on flashiness. For example, Rep. Pittenger (R., Minn.), sometimes dazzles with a brilliant crimson four-in-hand that evokes sly digs from his colleagues.

* * *

IT'S A TOSS-UP as to who is the best-dressed representative. Eugene Keogh (D., N. Y.) has plenty of gallery support for the title. So do Les Arends (R., Ill), Joseph Clark Baldwin (R., N. Y.) and Estes Kefauver, (D., Tenn.).

Single-breasted suits are generally more favored than double-breasted. Leading proponent of the latter is Minority Leader Martin (R., Mass.) His Bay State colleague, Majority Leader McCormick, habitually wears a single-breasted.

Four-in-hand cravats are far more favored than bow ties. On a typical day recently, with most of the members present in the house chamber, the margin was easily four-to-one in favor of the four-in-hands.

New York's James W. Wadsworth (R.) is a consistent bow-tie man. He also favors plaid suits, as does another New Yorker—Democrat John J. Delaney.

Day in and day out, gray appears to be the most favored suit color. Blue and brown follow in that order.

* * *

SPORTS JACKETS of tweed or flannel, with contrasting trousers, are becoming increasingly popular. Edwin Arthur Hall (R., N. Y.) is seldom seen dressed otherwise. Neither, for that matter, is another New York Republican, Walter G. Andrews.

Not infrequently, Roy Woodruff (R., Mich.) appears on the floor in a sports jacket of a color best described as burnt orange. Woodruff, like Pittenger with his crimson tie, doesn't mind a bit when he's "kidded" about the shade.

Lowell Stockman (R., Ore.), whose six feet, six inches make him the tallest man in the house, has the doubtful distinction of being perhaps the only member who can seldom—if ever—step into a store and buy a ready-made suit.

Stockman has to rely on made-to-order suits. His tailor does a good job, too. Impartial observers rank him one of the best-dressed.

Seldom, if ever, does any man appear on the floor with his suit in need of a pressing.

KKK Is Profitable Racket for "High-Ups."

WASHINGTON—How the Ku Klux Klan operates as a financial racket for high-up kluxers is revealed in a hitherto unpublished decision of the U.S. tax court which recently handed down an opinion regarding the Klan's one-time imperial wizard, Dr. Hiram W. Evans. Under his opinion, Dr. Evans was nicked to the tune of about $300,000. He will now have to dig down in his jeans and cough up that no small amount of back taxes to the U. S. treasury.

How a former dentist from Dallas, Texas, whose practice never was anything to brag about, could make enough money to owe $300,000 in taxes is one phase of KKK activity few people hear about. Peddling hate is an extremely lucrative racket. The dues collected from suckers all over the U.S.A. has made several Klan officials millionaires.

However, in this case, Dr. Evans, in addition to dues previously collected, was working another juicy source of income. He had an arrangement with Georgia state officials, particularly ex-Governor E. D. Rivers, whereby he sold asphalt for Georgia road construction.

And as part of his deductible expenses, Dr. Evans claimed the cost of entertaining Georgia state officials.

He told the government, for instance, that he had spent $21,516 in 1937 for "promotional" expenses; and another $15,320 in 1938. These were the years when Governor Rivers was in his prime.

The U. S. treasury, however, claimed that Dr. Evans' only promotional expense was his friendship with high Georgia officials (through the Ku Klux Klan) and that this did not entail any sales expense. Governor Rivers was a member of the Klan.

Family Corporation.

Dr. Evans also claimed that it cost him $3,918.90 to repair a dam on his country place, named Cochran Mill, outside of Atlanta, and that since this country place was used for entertaining state officials, the cost of repairing this dam should be deducted from his income tax.

The U. S. treasury, however, ruled otherwise.

Dr. Evans also set up three different dummy corporations which the treasury claimed were merely to escape taxes. He incorporated his wife, his three children, Ellen, Cecil, and Martha, and even his secretary, Mrs. Vines. The latter, incidentally, drew two salaries, one from Dr. Evans and the other from the Klan.

This corporation paid $1,000 a month to the imperial wizard, plus all his expenses and a new automobile.

One very significant statement in the report of the tax court typifies the manner in which the Klan has influenced politicians in many states, including Georgia, where the Klan played so close to its own member, Governor Rivers.

"Due to the influence of petitioner (Dr. Evans) with various state and county officials," said the tax court, "and his ability in obtaining contracts, the business grew rapidly."

Thus the prophets of bigotry waxed wealthy by peddling hate to the gullible.

Taft Condemns OPA "Propaganda."

WHILE the senate was considering OPA legislation there was, at one point, considerable debate about propaganda in connection with this most lively issue.

It was precipitated by Senator Taft (R., O.) who charged that OPA itself had "put on the greatest propaganda campaign that any government agency has ever put on." He claimed it had violated a law against use of government money to try to influence congress, and said if the justice department was on the job it would indict Chester Bowles and Paul Porter.

Injected into the debate, naturally, was discussion of propaganda by all sorts of outside organizations, including the National Association of Manufacturers and the CIO.

Senator Taft suggested some way should be found to prevent corporations from deducting from their income taxes any expenditure for advertising that could not be really classed as advertising. Now, he said, "corporation advertising, if it has the faintest touch of institutional advertising, is deductible."

If what the senator suggests were done, it probably would make it more difficult for the NAM to raise funds for the manifold propaganda activities carried out by its so-called National Industrial Information committee, for which a fund of $3 million is being sought for its work this year. For in a little pamphlet explaining its program and soliciting funds the NIIC, which is headed by J. Howard Pew, president of Sun Oil company, says:

"Based on the best information obtainable, subscriptions to the public relations program for NAM members may be considered as a legitimate 'business expense' and are deductible for tax purposes. Non-members wishing to subscribe should first become members."

In submitting all sorts of exhibits on OPA activities to the senate, the Ohio senator cited a case where a northern California OPA district office had gone into public schools to enlist student interest in OPA through a questionnaire.

In another case in Ohio, involving a school test on letters to OPA, he said a former OPA employe was responsible. Both activities were halted after protest, he said. The senator was properly critical, for such activity can not be condoned by a government agency.

The NAM also is active in schools. The NIIC report for last year by Mr. Pew lists expenditures of $75,828 for "literature for schools and public."

It explains that "a total of 1,082,068 thought-provoking, opinion-building booklets were distributed on request—800,000 to schools and colleges; 166,000 to commercial institutions; and the balance to libraries and individuals." It does not explain the "on request."

That was part of the $1,736,808 that the NIIC spent in 1945 for all sorts of propaganda activities, including radio programs, newspaper advertising, and initiation of 350 industry-group meetings to create "better relations with farm, home, church and educational groups by direct contact and discussion," the so-called "opinion molders," on which it spent the largest single amount, $465,073.

In defense of OPA, Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) said that while he favored the statute which Senator Taft had cited affecting propaganda by government agencies to influence congress, he felt that "it is the duty of agencies of the government to keep the people informed about what they are doing."

Russia Viewed as Being "Reactionary."

THERE are many reasons why Moscow should be angry over the articles written by Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times after 10 months spent in Soviet Russia. But there is one special reason for Russian irritation.

That is because Atkinson says clearly and firmly that the government of the Soviet Union today is a reactionary government. He hits directly at the illusion which many Liberals throughout the world have continued to cling to. That is the illusion that the Moscow government must be for the best since it constantly protests that it intends to usher in the millenium for the toiling masses.

It is a hope that dies hard in a world dominated by power, on the one hand, and misery and wretchedness on the other. It is a hope that Americans, with the idealism which is so strong a part of the American character, are peculiarly prone to.

But only those who prefer to be blind can any longer cherish the belief that the government of the Kremlin is anything but reactionary and repressive.

Their repressions abroad have become well known. Atkinson, in his articles, was talking about reaction and stultification at home.

One test he applied was in the arts, a field with which he is familiar through his years as a dramatic critic. He says that the Russian theater is dull, lifeless, unimaginative. This confirms what others have said.

Even in the department in which they excel, the ballet, they lack creativeness. In literature some good writing came out of the war, on the reportage level, such as Konstantin Simonov's "Days and Nights." But this is a long way short of the great tradition of Russian literature, which includes such figures as Tolstoi, Dostoievski and Chekov, who wrote in spite of the repressions of the Czars.

It seems to me that you can apply test after test to show that the regime in Russia is in reality reactionary. Take the position of women, long regarded as the test of the intentions of a society.

From the extreme of postcard divorce and legalized abortion, the Soviet Union has swung to the other extreme of repressive laws on birth control and abortion that go along with rewards to mothers for producing many children. The technique used to stimulate population growth resembles in some ways the methods used by Hitler and Mussolini.

The most distrubing note in Atkinson's articles did not concern this reactionary quality. After all, we "got along" with this regime. The most disturbing statement he makes is that the small group in the politburo, the governing power in Russia today, suffers from such a complex of suspicion and isolationism that it amounts to "group paranoia."

Reactionaries in our own country will be gladdened by this newest confirmation of the flaws in the Russian system.

They will probably ignore Atkinson's advice to his own countrymen:

"In competition with Russia, which is a dynamic force in the world, we have to maintain our supremacy by growth that is also dynamic. We have to increase production and raise standards of living on a dynamic scale . . ."

Walter Lippmann

Russia Playing for Alliance With Germany.

IN HIS opening statement on Germany Foreign Commissar Molotov was not addressing himself to Foreign Minister Bevin and Secretary of State Byrnes. He was talking over their heads to the Germans, intending to have the Germans understand what he meant while the British and Americans couldn't and probably wouldn't believe it.

This opinion gambit was shrewdly and cunningly contrived and it was immediately successful. He put Russia forward as the champion and protector of German nationalism against the western powers and then, in order to give that idea time to work its effect on Germany, insisted on suspending negotiations. Bevin and Byrnes were unprepared to deal with this bold maneuver. Instead of challenging his thesis and stating their own, they allowed it to stand, arguing, weakly and defensively, that they are not so bad as Molotov had painted them. They even allowed him to get away uncontradicted with the demagogic falsehood that to federalize Germany is to dismember Germany.

LIPPMANN

The grand purpose of Molotov's statement is to shape the future of Europe. In what it affirms and in what it rejects, in what it says and in what it leaves unsaid, it is carefully designed to bring about the exclusion of the British, French and Americans from effective influence in the eventual German settlement and to prepare the way for another Russo-German alliance.

I know how serious a charge this is. The proof is complex and cumulative.

But we may begin in this first article with one crucial point on which, I submit, no other interpretation is possible: How can Russia, and why does Russia denounce the western powers as wishing to "dismember" Germany when it is Russia which has annexed for herself and for Poland the large German territory east of the Oder and the Neisse rivers?

Molotov's Appeal.

"It has of late," said Molotov, "become fashionable to talk about dismemberment of Germany into several 'autonomous' states; about federalization of Germany and about the separation of the Ruhr from Germany. . . . Naturally if as a result of a plebiscite throughout Germany (sic) the German people express their wish to transform Germany into a federal state, or if as a result of a plebiscite in various former German states a desire will be manifested to break away from Germany, it goes without saying that there cannot be any objection on our part."

Thus Molotov is against what he calls "dismemberment," unless the Germans vote for it, though Russia and Poland have already dismembered eastern Germany, and he is favorable to a unified and centralized Reich.

What can be the meaning of this extraordinary paradox where Molotov who has dismembered the Reich comes forward as the great champion of German unity and the great protector of Germany against annexation and against federalism? How can he, of all men, by telling the Germans that they may look to the Soviet Union to prevent "the destruction of Germany?"

Effort To Deceive.

The answer to this conundrum is not that Molotov is hypocritically trying to deceive the Germans. The German nationalist elements will understand him. For they will remember the history of German-Russian relations over a period of a century and a half. They will remember also Molotov's own diplomatic history. They will have observed the line taken by the German Communist party under Soviet sponsorship.

For the Germans, this statement will mark a tacit understanding about the future, that at an appropriate time, if the Germans play their part properly, Russia will abandon Poland, and will once again join with Germany in a partition of Poland.

That is the tacit understanding, foreshadowed for some considerable time in German Communist tactics, which has enabled the German Communists to proclaim themselves the true party of German unity, and not be made ridiculous because they cannot protest publicly against the dismemberment of eastern Germany.

The Germans, who have good memories, will not have forgotten that after the first World war, when Russia was ostracized and Germany was prostrate, they got the Rapallo treaty, and after the second World war they are being addressed by one of the authors of the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact which preceded it. . . . That the Germans are listening, and that they will understand, there can be no doubt.

The western allies, who have talked more than they have thought about German unity, can never give the Germans the unity the Germans really want.

For the western allies can never restore the lost provinces of eastern Germany. But Russia can restore them, and that is why Molotov is able to outtalk Bevin and Byrnes on the subject of German unity.

Threat To Poland.

Russia can restore German unity by the simple expedient of doing once more what has been done four times before—joining with Germany to partition Poland. This is the prospect which Molotov holds out to the Germans as the reason why they should turn to Moscow and should reject the western plan of a German federation.

The more trouble there is in Poland, the nearer the day when the Russians decide that an independent Poland is unmanageable, and that an alliance with Germany based on the partition of Poland is once again, as it was for so long in the past, their best and easiest policy.

That this day may not be so far distant is plainly indicated by the whole substance and tenor of Molotov's statement.

For he would never have turned so sharply in favor of Germany against France if he were not getting ready also to turn in favor of Germany against Poland.

That this would be the line of Russian policy was, it seemed to me most probable even four months ago when I was in Germany. It was easier then than it will be now for the British and the Americans to promote a German settlement which is less disastrously unfavorable to the liberties of Europe and the peace of the world.

Weakened By Wrangling.

They have done little in the interval. They have worn themselves out wrangling about secondary issues, and have become so preoccupied with the immediate and temporary difficulties of the occupation in their own zones. They have been so unwilling to listen to Europeans who know Europe, that now—when the Russians have moved boldly and brazenly to unite the Germans behind them—they are unprepared to talk back, much less to act.

Let us hope that Bevin and Byrnes will be alerted before it is altogether too late, and they will remember what happened in 1939 to Chamberlain and Daladier behind their backs when they were negotiating with Molotov on the same fundamental problem — the relations between Germany and Russia.

Though the outward circumstances are different today, the essentials and ultimates of the question are the same. The Russians know it. The Germans know it. There is no doubt that the French know it. But it is an open question —though on it hangs the future of Europe — whether Bevin and Byrnes know it.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A story of Lord Berkeley's ingenuity, which gives a clew to why he left a million pounds when he died, concerns the night he was entertaining a crony at a local tavern.

As he was preparing to pay the bill, a guinea slipped out of his hand, and rolled into a deep crack in the uncarpeted floor. "I guess you'll have to count that guinea lost," said his companion.

"Not at all," said Berkeley. He called the waitress, and said, "My dear, I've dropped two guineas. You'll find them here somewhere if you're patient. Now we are in a hurry, so if you'll give me one guinea now, you can keep the extra one for yourself when you find it."

The transaction was completed, everybody was satisfied, and Lord Berkeley and his friend set out for the play.

Now They May Come Home -- Men Who Died In World War II; Relatives Learn Details

They may now come home—those who fought and gave their lives to maintain "the American way." They may be brought back to their hometowns.

By request of next-of-kin and through sanction and supervision of the American government, the bodies of Gold Star heroes will be returned by the War department. Information on this repatriation for Gold Star families has been compiled by the National Selected Morticians. Booklets in question and answer form can be obtained from the Finefrock funeral home, local representative of the national group.

Repatriation is a question to be decided solely and exclusively by the next-of-kin of each member of the armed forces, merchant seaman or a civilian who died while in war duty overseas since Sept. 3, 1939 and whose place of interment is known.

The first repatriated remains are expected to reach this country about March, 1947.

* * *

Rank Is No More.

No precedence will be shown according to military or naval rank. Remains will be returned from all parts of the world in the program which is estimated to take two years or more.

There are four choices which next-of-kin may make concerning relatives who died during the war in military duty:

1. Interred overseas in a permanent American military cemetery if sufficient requests are made to warrant the establishment of such cemeteries; or interred in a local private cemetery overseas if no military cemetery is established in the area.

2. Returned to the United States for burial in a national cemetery, if the deceased was a member of the armed forces.

3. Returned to the United States or any American possession or territory for interment by the next-of-kin in a private cemetery, or for cremation.

4. Sent to a foreign country which was the deceased's native land if the United States can obtain entry to that country.

If the deceased was not married, the father, mother or brothers over 21 in order of seniority, sisters over 21 in order of their seniority, relatives over 21 in order of their relationship to the deceased is "next-of-kin." If the deceased was married, the widow or widower if not divorced, separated or remarried is "next-of-kin."

If body can not be claimed by spouse, sons over 21 in order of seniority, daughters over 21 in order of their seniority and relatives over 21 in order of their relationship to the deceased may request repatriation.

* * *

Do Not Write.

Military authorities urge that next-of-kin do not write seeking repatriation priority. The official canvass will determine the extent of repatriation.

Remains will not be simultaneously repatriated from all parts of the world. The systematic schedule for this repatriation should be finished late in 1948.

If remains are returned to this country for burial in a private cemetery or are sent to a foreign country for burial in a private cemetery, the government will pay $50 towards the cost of final interment. When burial is made in an overseas military cemetery or a national cemetary in the United States, the full cost of final interment is borne by the government. All expenses of preparing remains for repatriation and transporting them to final destinations will be paid by the government.

The government provides an official type grave marker wherever interment is made. If another marker is desired (allowed only in private cemeteries), it must be bought and paid for privately. The government provides only perpetual care of graves in national cemeteries in this country.

National cemeteries are located throughout the United States, its possessions and territories. Any deceased member of the armed forces can be interred in the Arlington National cemetary in Washington, D. C.

At present there are over 350 overseas military cemeteries located throughout the European theater of operations, in the Pacific area, Mediterranean zone, African-Middle east zone, Caribbean zone, Eastern defense command, Alaskan department, China zone and the India-Burma zone.

Great pains have been taken by the war department to assure that the actual task of repatriation will be accomplished with all the reverence and dignity due the nation's Gold Star heroes and traditional with American funeral service.

After identification has been established beyond any question of a doubt, the remains will be placed in an all-steel seamless casket. The casket will be placed in a sturdy outer box composed of strong plywood bonded to a metal lining. It will then be sent to the nearest port of embarkation and placed aboard one of several ships specially converted for repatriation. Each ship will be painted white and will be circled by a wide purple band. Each case containing a casket will be placed in an individual crypt, to rest until the port of debarkation (New York or San Francisco) is reached. The outer cases and caskets then will be placed in individual crypts on specially converted trains and sent under military escort to various redistribution points throughout the United States. From there, each casket will be dispatched under military escort to its final destination. Next-of-kin can not meet the ship returning the remains of a loved one.

Next-of-kin will be notified by the war department when remains are actually enroute to the United States.

The program also provides for cremation, in which case the cremation is carried out before return to families, and the remains encased in an urn. Remains may also be cremated upon arrival at the final destination. If remains are cremated enroute, the government covers the cost. If cremation is carried out at the final destination, the $50 token payment will be made to the next-of-kin to help defray the cost.

If remains are to be interred in a national cemetery, the relatives will be notified either by telegram or telephone of the arrival of the casket.

Each casket will be sealed. Both military officials and civilian funeral directors strongly advice against opening the casket upon its arrival at its destination.

The war department has given assurance that no remains will be returned to a next-of-kin unless the identification is complete and beyond the question of a doubt.

If the next-of-kin wishes to have the remains transferred to another type casket, cost will be stood by the next-of-kin.

Any deceased member of any of the armed forces, providing he or she died in service or had been honorably discharged, is entitled to a funeral with military honors. No charge is made for a guard of honor or firing squad at a military funeral.

BURGLAR TOILS FOR $13

DENVER —(U.P.)— Denver police couldn't figure out why a burglar would go to all the trouble of mounting a fence several times to steal 700 pounds of aircraft gaskets from a local tooling firm. The heavy loot, removed from the building via the fence route in several loads, was worth all of $13.

JUDGE PROVES OBLIGING

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (U.P.) — Justice of the Peace Paul Elwell proved that he could be obliging. He fined attorney Ralph Booth McAbee $10 for contempt of court after he and the lawyer had haggled during the trial of a drunken driving charge. "Ten dollars could not begin to express my contempt for this court," McAbee retorted to the fine. The judge obliged: he boosted the fine to $50.

Woman Becomes 'First Lady' of Agriculture School.

ITHACA, N. Y. — (INS) — "First Lady" of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell university is the unofficial title of Miss Ruth E. Phelps of Corfu.

Miss Phelps is the first woman graduate student ever to major in agricultural economics, the first to be named assistant in the department, and the first to receive an advanced degree in that field.

She will receive her master's degree this month and plans to enter research in agriculture.

Miss Phelps lives on a farm in Corfu. After high school she came to Cornell to major in science education. In her senior year she became interested in agricultural geography that she decided to major in agricultural economics instead of becoming a science teacher.

"Perhaps the reason why women do not major in agricultural economics is because they don't realize how much science there is in agriculture and how interesting it can be," she said.

MISS ADA HAHN IS BRIDE OF G. E. MILLER

Couple Exchange Vows at First Lutheran Church; Double Ring Service Read By Rev. Carveth Mitchell.

MISS ADA HAHN, 243 Park drive, daughter of Mrs. Marion Flack of Bettsville, became the bride of Gerald E. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Miller, 252 Park avenue west, in an open church ceremony Sunday afternoon at the First English Lutheran church.

The double ring service was read by Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell before the altar which was decorated with candelabra, palms and beauty baskets of white gladiolas, pink roses, and blue delphinium. George A. Potye, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage.

Mrs. Clayson Bell, organist, played "Indian Love Call," Friml; "Till the End of Time," Chopin; "I Love You Truly," Bond; and the traditional wedding marches by Lohengrin. The soloist was Allen Neff of Medina who sang "Always" by Berlin and "Until" by Sanderson.

The bride's gown of lace and marquisette over satin had a lace bodice with a sweetheart neckline and long tight sleeves. The full skirt of marquisette extended into a long train. Her fingertip silk illusion veil was attached to a Quaker style headpiece of lace. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Mrs. George A. Potye served as her sister's matron of honor, while Miss Virginia Shadel was bridesmaid. The attendants' dresses were styled alike in taffeta and net. Mrs. Potye wore a sky blue dress and Miss Shadel a gown of pink. They carried bouquets of pink roses with contrasting ribbons.

Both Mrs. Flack and Mrs. Miller wore pink sheer dresses with white accessories and gardenia corsages.

Best man was Paul Brumenshenkel, friend of the groom. Ushers were Gene Beal, Robert Landfair, Arthur Miller and Ralph Norris.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Sons of Herman Hall for approximately 65 guests. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

When the couple left for a two week wedding trip through New England, the new Mrs. Miller was wearing an aqua linen dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage. They will reside with the groom's parents upon their return.

Barbara Oberlander to Wed William B. Beam Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Oberlander, 117 Ausdale avenue, announce that the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to William Bradley Beam, son of Lydon H. Beam, 455 West Fourth street, will take place on Saturday, July 20.

The open church ceremony will be performed at the First Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. next Saturday. Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner will officiate.

Miss Oberlander is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at Golden Russell's store. Mr. Beam also graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. He is now attending Purdue university where he is affiliated with the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

NEWLYWEDS HONORED.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Oswalt, who were married July 12, were honored at a dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oswalt, Sunday. Relatives of the couple attended the dinner which was served from a table centered with a five-tiered wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Oswalt were united in marriage by Rev. Herbert Garnes at the St. Luke's Lutheran church parsonage last Friday. The bride is the former Miss Catherine Liston.

Playgirl — Midriff playsuit with rompers and skirt. All easy to make.

By DOROTHY ROE
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

All set for your summer fun clothes? Or are you still searching the shops for those gay, brief, bare-midriff styles that our best charmers will wear this season?

If the pickin's are slim and the prices high, don't despair. Visit the piece-goods counter, gather up some lengths of gay bright cottons and trot home for a session with the old family sewing machine.

Before you buy, start by planning how you are going to spend most of your leisure hours this summer. Are you a tennis player? Then be sure your outfit is as speed as your game. Is bicycling your forte? Or sailing . . . or just sitting pretty? Are you a romper at the beach?

For all of these favorite summer activities there are new patterns, designed by Simplicity and easy-as-pie, which will help you whip up a play wardrobe in nothing flat.

The new brief and simplified styles, consisting of a few scraps of material skillfully applied, are duck soup for the home sewer. In the first place, they take only a minute amount of fabric. In the second place, they're much easier to make than real honest-to-goodness dresses.

So save money, save time and save your shoe leather, take the sun in a home-made fun wardrobe this summer.

Delegates Report On Convention Of Sorority

Members of Alpha Epsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Sigma sorority met in the clubrooms Monday evening for their regular business meeting.

Reports were heard from delegates, Miss Marjorie Miles and Miss Garnet Karl, to the 25th anniversary convention of the sorority. The convention was held in the Carter hotel, Cleveland, on July 12 and 13. Each delegate was presented with a gift of silver from the supreme officers.

It was announced that a convention will also be held in Springfield with Alpha Iota chapter as hostesses.

Plans for two picnics to be held in August were discused. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Noel Morgan, Mrs. Ralph Norris, Earlene Anderson, Miss Patricia Piper, and Miss Ellanora Smeltzer.

The bridge prize of the evening was won by Miss Miles, while the door prize was awarded to Miss Marjorie Sheehe. The next meeting will be in the form of a picnic to be held Aug. 6.

Shower Given For Bride-Elect Of M. R. Nixon

Miss Mary Helen Creamer, bride-elect of M. Richard Nixon, was feted at a pre-nuptial shower and dessert bridge last night at the home of Mrs. John Korn in Galion.

Bridge was played at four tables and prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Clark and Mrs. Peter Creamer, jr., who presented them to the honoree. Dessert was served from tables decorated with tall lighted tapers and sweetpea arrangements.

Miss Creamer received many miscellaneous gifts including an electrical gift from Mrs. Korn and the assistant hostesses, Mrs. James Jurgens, Miss Pat Creamer and Mrs. Creamer.

The next in the series of parties for Miss Creamer will be a miscellaneous shower at the Woods, Ashland road, on Thursday. Mrs. Marion Nixon will be hostess.

Miss Creamer and Mr. Nixon will be united in marriage on July 26 at 1:30 p. m. at the St. Peter's parsonage.

MONDAY NIGHTERS.

The Monday Nighters club met for a dinner meeting at Scotty's Supper club Monday evening at 6:30 p. m.

Following the dinner, the members went to the home of Mrs. Henry Stutz, Kentucky avenue where cards were played. The next meeting will be held on Aug. 12, the place to be announced later.

Your Baby

By EDNA M. MINTOSH

Have you ever wondered why, on those days when you're upset, that baby seems to be tired and irritable too? Well it is a fact that children have an almost uncanny way of sensing your own moods and feelings. Therefore it's important to try and keep on as even an emotional keel as possible. Try not to be upset and worried about things, especially when you're around baby. The irritableness that you transfer to baby further complicates your own emotional outlook.

One of the prominent magazines advised mothers recently to try to understand the sort of person you are. If you are nervous, and short of patience and sometimes secretly rebellious at the life you lead, then you should ask yourself a few questions and try to find out where the worst of the pressures and annoyances are coming from.

It is quite possible that there is a need for a change in some of your routine way of doing things. On washday do you try to do too many other household chores that could just as well be undertaken at some other time of the week? Are you arranging your day so that while giving baby full care and attention, you also have a few hours to yourself for reading or relaxation or radio listening? Or maybe getting the family dinner is conflicting with baby's eating habits so that there's too little time for you to sit down and enjoy dinner.

One excellent way to save time in getting baby's meals is to rely heavily on strained and chopped foods that are available. A short heating and they're ready to serve, and they provide an appetizing, healthful diet for baby, too.

So relax as much as you can—be sure you get plenty of nighttime sleep, and rearrange your work and leisure to avoid strains and annoyance just as much as possible.

BABY'S TAN SHOULD COME GRADUALLY

By BETTY CLARKE

If you are planning to commit baby to the sun, be sure to plan his exposure intelligently. Mothers who are fond of the sun themselves and who stretch out to get as broiled as lobsters shouldn't expect their little tykes to take the same sort of punishment.

Baby's skin is tender and sensitive, and if mother is beauty-wise as well as considerate, she'll plan gradual sun bathing schedules for herself, baby and the older children, too.

Little babies shouldn't get too much sun. If they are being sunned in the carriage they will get enough even if the carriage shade is lowered. But as soon as baby is six weeks old you can begin a one minute sun bath, front and back, and increase the time of exposure very gradually until he is getting a 20-minute bath front and back. Older babies and toddlers should begin their sunning on a minute schedule, too, and increase their moments in the sun in slow progression.

Both Mom and baby can use a bland baby lotion to help protect delicate skin and sun against wind burn. The nice thing about baby lotions and baby oils is that Mom has found they are a boon to a smooth, even tan for herself.

The baby oil lubricant which helps safeguard tender skin from chafing and chapping is equally effective in aiding older sun bathers to get a good tan without burning or peeling.

When sunning baby, never put him out in the noonday sun. If Mom must take her sunbath early, she'd better leave baby with a sitter while she's basking. The best time for a sun bath for baby and the younger set is in the morning before the sun's rays are too bright or in the late afternoon.

Always protect baby's eyes even if the sunlight isn't strong. You can place his head in the shade while his body is being sunned or you can place an umbrella above his head to throw a shadow.

Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk Is Important On Their Vacation

Now, during vacation when youngsters are especially active, they must have proper nourishment to maintain good health and promote normal body development. Particularly important, for two reasons, is Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk.

First, Homogenization—the scientific process which Isaly's use—makes milk taste richer and creamier because there are more cream particles and they are evenly distributed through the entire quart. That means the last glassful tastes just as rich as the first and is just as nourishing. Homogenized Milk digests quicker and easier, too.

Second, every quart is fortified with 400 Vitamin D units, the amount nutrition experts say all growing children should have daily to help build strong bones and sound teeth. No regular foods contain sufficient quantities of Vitamin D.

So begin today to give your children the two important advantages Isaly's Milk provides—Homogenization and Vitamin D. Call 4217-6 or drop us a postcard and tell us when to have the friendly Isaly route man begin delivery. You may obtain many of the other Isaly dairy products from him, too. There is no extra charge for home delivery service.

Homogenized milk is Pasteurized milk scientifically processed by forcing every drop through very small openings at extremely high pressure. This produces nearly 10 times more butterfat globules. These tiny cream particles then combine with the milk and never separate. Thus, there's cream throughout the entire quart.
